

GIANT AIRSHIP ROMA EXPLODES; 33 KILLED

Plunges From 1000 Foot Level, Hits High Tension Wire, Bursts Into Flames

MANY MEN SEEN TO LEAP FROM CAR OF FALLING CRAFT

Authorities at Langley Field Say
There Were 43 Persons Aboard
Craft in Flight Over Hampton Roads—On Trial Flight With Liberty Engines.

By the Associated Press.

NORFOLK, Feb. 21.—Exploding after crashing downward during a trial flight, the army's Italian-built airship Roma was destroyed near the naval base here at 2:12 o'clock this afternoon with the loss of 33 lives.

While the official check of the passenger list may show one more or less to have been on board the big ship when it set out from Langley Field today, the statements of survivors that only 43 were on board have been borne out by an official announcement here.

It was officially announced at the army base at 3:40 that only ten survivors have been rescued from the wreckage of the Roma. Eight of these were seriously injured and two slightly.

A dozen or more men were seen to leap from the ship high in the air, as the ship fell obliquely towards the barracks. A sheet of flame leaped from the rent bag as she struck and the boats plunged to the ground 20 feet below. The flames from the burning wreckage prevented immediate rescue work.

Some of the men clung to parachutes, while others leaped over the side and plunged to the ground, according to eyewitnesses.

The Roma was flying over the warehouses at the army supply base at the time of the accident. That she was in trouble was noted by persons in the neighborhood, who saw a wisp of smoke dart suddenly above the big gas bag.

The wisp became a dull, reddish glare as the bag burst into flames. A great volume of smoke rose. The Roma went into a nose dive near warehouse No. 4 on the army base reservation.

Falls in Flames at Base.

The collapsed and burning dirigible settled to the street alongside the army base fire station. Firemen started fighting the blaze at once.

The wreckage was still burning like a blast furnace at 2:50 o'clock, though chemicals were being played on the debris by the army base fire department.

Calls were sent immediately to the hospital at the naval base for assistance, also to the hospital at the army supply base and local hospitals. Medical officers from the United States public health service hospital at the base were soon on the scene.

Men were taken from the wreckage of the big airship, many of them badly burned and some otherwise hurt.

The Roma was between 600 and 1000 feet in the air when she started to fall, officers at the Hampton Roads naval base stated.

List of injured given out at 4 o'clock included:

Captain Reed, U. S. A.
Walter A. McNaire of the Bureau of Standards, Washington.
Major J. D. Reardon.
Harry Chapman, master sergeant.
Charles Dvorch, master sergeant.
First Sergeant C. H. Welch.
Sergeant Peek.
Roy Burley, aviation service.
Lieutenant W. E. Riley died while being taken to the United States Public Health Hospital.

WITH VERTICAL CONTROLS GONE, ROMA DIVES INTO A WIRE

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The Navy Department was notified of the Roma disaster in the following telegram from the naval authorities at Norfolk:

"Army dirigible Roma caught fire and fell to ground near army base, Norfolk, about 2:10 p. m. Thirty-three persons reported dead."

The accident to the Roma occurred when the vertical controls were carried away, Capt. Doyle, of the naval air station at Hampton Roads, said in a telephone conversation today with Rear Admiral Moffett at the Navy Department. This, he said, caused the dirigible to dive nose-first, and in its descent it struck a high tension electric wire, causing the airship to catch fire.

The airship Roma, it was said at the Navy Department, was engaged in a trial flight after recent installation of Liberty motors to replace the Italian engines with which the ship originally was equipped. When she made the flight from Langley Field to Washington last year to be christened and formally commissioned in the army air service, the Italian engines gave trouble and it was decided to replace them with proven American models.

The Roma originally was built for a passenger ship and carried several passenger cabins. She was altered when she was brought from Italy on shipboard and reassembled at Langley Field so that she had but one passenger cabin.

Tentative plans were made recently by the air service for operation of the ship this spring and summer on a commercial test run between New York and Chicago, and later for a transcontinental flight.

ROMA LOSS LIKE DISASTER OF ZR-2

The loss of the Roma is the second disaster of its kind within six months. The dirigible ZR-2 was wrecked Aug. 24 last, on its final trial flight, when it exploded and fell into the River Humber at Hull, England. Sixteen American and about 20 British naval officers and men lost their lives.

An English court of inquiry investigated the ZR-2 disaster, and reported last October that the accident was due to structural weakness and that there was no evidence that the design had been examined and discussed by a competent official committee. Of the few survivors, it was stated, none owed his escape to a parachute, though there was a parachute for each person on board. It was stated that economies in design had been effected, without apparent full information as to their effect on strength.

The report of the British Admiralty Board, which was not concluded until Jan. 10, stated that no undue risk was taken in the design of the ZR-2 and that there was no change from previous practice as regards safety, which experience, or comparison with German airships, did not make permissible.

ROMA'S CAPACITY WAS 1,200,000 FEET OF GAS

Estimated Speed of 80 Miles,
Weight Carrying Allowance of 19 Tons.

The Roma, purchased from the Italian Government for $200,000, was said at the time of the purchase, a year ago, to be a bargain, as it would probably cost $1,250,000 to duplicate the ship.

The Roma was brought to the United States deflated, on shipboard. It was of 1,200,000 cubic feet capacity, 410 feet long, 52 feet wide, 33½ feet high, and equipped with six 12-cylinder engines of 400-horsepower each.

It had an estimated speed of 80 miles an hour, and a cruising radius at full speed of 2300 miles and at cruising speed of 3000 miles.

It was estimated that the ship could carry 19 tons weight through the air, in addition to its own structure and crew, at the 80-mile-an-hour speed.

The assembling of the Roma was completed at Langley Field, Va., early in November. The first flight to Washington was postponed a few days because of engine trouble and bad weather, but the round-trip flight was made successfully Dec. 21, the big craft flying over the national capital.

Hangar at Scott Field Was to Have Housed Roma.

Work was begun at Scott Field, near Belleville, last September, on a hangar to cost $1,045,000. This hangar was intended originally to house the dirigible ZR-2 on its cross-country flights. The plans for its construction were not affected by the loss of the ZR-2.

The War Department has lately had under consideration the question of making Scott Field headquarters for lighter-than-air craft in army service.

Since the purchase of the Roma, it has been announced that the Scott Field hangar would be used for that craft on its cross-country journeys. The hangar is designed not only for very large craft, but as a storage place for a number of small and medium-sized dirigibles, it being cheaper to build one very large hangar than several smaller ones.

Under the contract, held by the W. M. Sutherland Building and Contracting Co. of St. Louis, the hangar is to be completed about Aug. 1 next.

BONUS, WITH FUNDS FROM BEER TAX, OR BOOTLEGGER?

Question Being Asked in Washington, With Maryland Congressmen Advocating Change in Dry Law

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

A Special Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Bootlegger or bonus?—That's the question which now is being propounded here.

Shall the Government put a tax on light wines and beer, or even on beer only, and get more than enough money with which to pay the soldier bonus, or shall the bootlegger continue to get enormous profits which the Government is unable to reach either through the income tax or through prohibition enforcement?

In desperation, Congress is seeking a method to raise $350,000,000 a year to pay a soldier bonus. Practically every new method of taxation suggested has enough foes to prevent adoption by both houses of Congress. The bond issue has been rejected by President Harding, the revival of the excess profits tax and nuisance taxes have also been taboed by Mr. Harding. And now the agricultural bloc is fighting the sales tax on the ground that it will increase the cost of living to everybody.

In these circumstances, asks Representative John Phillips Hill of Maryland, author of the bill to tax light wines and beer, why not gather in at least $600,000,000 by such taxes and have more than enough to pay the soldiers' bonus?

"The American Legion has no objection to any method that may be proposed for raising revenue," said John Thomas Taylor, chairman of the National Legislative Committee of the American Legion, who is conducting the fight for the bonus. "We believe the Senate and House committees are sufficiently competent to find ways to finance the bonus."

BOSTON DISTRICT ATTORNEY OUSTED BY SUPREME COURT

Charges of Extortion
Through Threats of Prosecution Upheld in Trial on 21 Counts of Misconduct.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier of Suffolk County was removed by the Supreme Court today. The court found him guilty in several counts under charges of malfeasance, misfeasance and nonfeasance in office.

The court's ruling was on charges brought by State Attorney-General Allen that Pelletier had been a party to conspiracy to extort money under threat of prosecution and to suppress indictments. His relations with Daniel H. Coakley and other local attorneys were characterized by the Attorney-General as a "partnership in crime."

The decision of the court was unanimous. Five of the seven Justices, including Chief Justice Rugg, sat at the trial.

In its conclusion, the court said that "every presumption of uprightness, rectitude and innocence which commonly characterizes the conduct of men in public affairs" had been invoked in favor of the respondent, but that the findings made clear "beyond peradventure of doubt," that the respondent was unfit to hold longer the office of District Attorney.

The court found Pelletier guilty in most of the 21 important instances of misconduct alleged by the Attorney-General.

Found Guilty on Most Charges.
He was found guilty on the charge that during his campaign for the mayoralty, subsequently abandoned, he offered to quash any proceedings against persons who took it upon themselves to resist vigorously reports that Pelletier intended to resign.

The District Attorney was found guilty also in the Emerson Motors case, in which that company was said to have paid $25,500 to stop prosecution in Suffolk County. Pelletier was charged with threatening Continued on Page 2, Column 5.

POLICE WITH RIOT GUNS FIRE INTO TEXTILE STRIKERS

Sympathizer Killed and Several Wounded When Workers Refuse to Disperse
After Riot Act Reading.

By the Associated Press.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Feb. 21.—Joseph Assuncan of Valley Falls, one of a group of strike sympathizers, was killed today when police discharged riot guns after a mob refused to disperse. Two others were seriously wounded. Mayor Kenyon, in command of the police, had read the riot act to the crowd. The shooting occurred near the Jenkins Milling Co.'s plant, where there is a strike.

The Jenkins company has been operating its mills with partial forces. A disturbance there yesterday was marked by a police attack on a crowd which had assaulted four young women operatives.

The crowd that gathered at the opening hour today numbered hundreds. Although national guardsmen had been held at their armory here over night, they were not called and the police were in charge of the patrol duty. Mayor Kenyon took command of the situation himself.

The crowd was ordered to break up and move on. When they failed to do so the Mayor read the riot act. The mob held its ground and the order was given for the police to fire. The riot guns were discharged and in the spray of shots Assuncan and four others were struck. Two of those wounded were said to be seriously hurt and they were taken to a hospital. The wounds of the other two were considered slight.

CHARGES AGAINST REILLY WILL BE PRESENTED TODAY

Investigation of Governor of Porto Rico Is Purpose of Plan of Resident Commissioner.

DISMISSAL OF NATIVE OFFICIALS ASSAILED

Man From Porto Rico Declares Courts and Police Organizations Have Been Disrupted by Methods.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, No. 20 Wyatt Building, WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—An investigation looking to impeachment, or other steps for removal from office of E. Mont Reilly, Governor of Porto Rico, is the ultimate purpose of charges now being made against him by his critics. These charges are to be presented to the House of Representatives today by F. Cordova Davila, Resident Commissioner of Porto Rico in Congress, at the time this will be accorded him.

This will be preliminary to resolutions to follow. One will seek to have the House Committee on Insular Affairs conduct a thorough investigation of the Government of Porto Rico since May, 1921. If the facts brought out justify further steps, the plan is to start impeachment proceedings, which would require the trial of Reilly before the Senate of the United States. The critics hope that meanwhile pressure will become sufficient to require President Harding to ask his former Western Manager for his resignation as Governor.

Chairman Towne of the Insular Affairs Committee, is not prepared to present to indicate what attitude he or his colleagues on the committee will take toward a proposal to investigate. Those attacking Reilly's record believe a majority will be with them.

Plan to Change Government.

This committee has before it bills introduced by Representative Phil Hammett, Republican, of Kansas, and others looking to a change of government in the island by which the Representative from the United States would not have the same powers that exist at present, exercise of which has resulted in the form of dissatisfaction and the movement to have Reilly relieved of his job. It is possible that the Insular Affairs Committee may decide to let the hearing on these measures furnish the opportunity for a study of the regime of Reilly. Chairman Towne believes the committee will not have its desks cleared for the Porto Rican matter until March or April.

Walter McK. Jones of Porto Rico probably will be the chief witness in the event of an inquiry. He has been in the United States several months working on the record of Reilly in Kansas City. Jones declared the Reilly Government has disrupted the peace and harmony of Porto Rico and that these elements will not be restored until the Governor has been returned to the United States.

Jones related today his first experience with Reilly, which was in Washington immediately following his appointment as Governor. While Jones was talking with him at the hotel, the telephone rang and Reilly was told the White House wanted him.

"Showed Off," Jones Says.

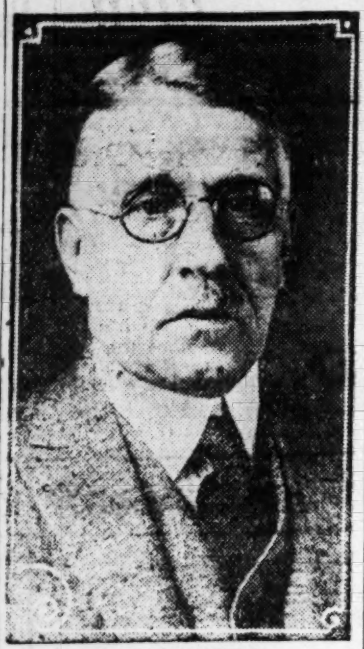

"Oh, tell me to wait; I am busy," was Reilly's reply, according to Jones, who said his impression was that the Governor was trying to show off. He declares that this has been his impression since. According to Jones, he was told by Reilly that at conference of an intention to make a close study of those then in office in Porto Rico. Jones advised him to wait until he got to the island, as there were some good men who should first see.

Reilly told him, Jones said, that he was going to take from Kansas City the best detective in Kansas or Missouri. He was referring to George E. McClure, later appointed.

"Does he speak Spanish?" inquired Jones. "He does not have to speak Spanish; he can detect in any language," Reilly replied, according to Jones.

Later a letter went from Porto Rico to Chief Charles Edwards of

PORTO RICO GOVERNOR AGAINST WHOM CHARGES WILL BE MADE TODAY

E. MONT REILLY.

Kansas City, asking about McClure. The Chief replied:

"You of Sept. 25 inquiring about one George E. McClure, Chief of Detectives under Gov. E. Mont Reilly, received."

"Mr. McClure was appointed a clerk in this department on Dec. 1, 1919, and resigned by request on May 2, 1921. His resignation was asked for during a reorganization of the department when it was found that he was an incompetent clerk. He was never suspected of having any talent for detective work."

Jones cited this in support of testimony to be given regarding the character of the man Reilly took to his post at the end of July, regarding as "ward heeler."

A summary of the charges concerning his official acts either already published or to be submitted by Commissioner Davila has been given in the Post-Dispatch by Jones.

The latter said:

"He was confirmed by the Senate as Governor of Porto Rico on the 16th of May, 1921, and ultimately left for his post at the end of July, devoting his time meanwhile, while drawing salary from the people of Porto Rico, to playing Missouri politics."

"His first official act as Governor of Porto Rico, while still in Washington, was a demand that the salaries of his Chief of Secret Service, of his private secretary, and of his stenographer be increased, and his statement at the time to the commissioner of Porto Rico, is significant:

"Increase the salaries of these offices, do not cut the appropriations of the Governor, and we will get along all right."

"His arrival in Porto Rico was signaled by his inauguration speech, which was tactless in substance and in delivery."

"His most serious offenses in the short time he has been in Porto Rico have been the intimidating of the courts and the removal of judges without preferring charges."

Removed Judges.

"He removed the Municipal Judge of San Juan, together with the Clerk and Marshal. He removed the Municipal Judge of Ponce, appointed another Judge to fill the vacancy and reinstated the Judge he had just removed."

"The Judge of the District Court of Humacao was summoned by the Governor to the palace and threatened with removal if he refused to resign."

"Reilly sent his Chief of Detectives to investigate the Judge of Pailas and the Judge of Camuy, and McClure endeavored to have them conducted to the police station for investigation. The Judge of Pailas refused to appear at such place and tendered his resignation to the Attorney-General by letter."

"The Municipal Judge of San Juan instituted mandamus proceedings before the Supreme Court, and the case is still pending."

"In addition to intimidating the judiciary, Reilly has succeeded in seriously impairing the efficiency of the police force. A little less than three weeks after his arrival he dismissed three policemen and promptly reinstated them, all without consulting the Chief of Police."

"He pardoned a policeman who had been sentenced by a lower court, which sentence was still on appeal, to a higher court, and the man had to be expelled a few days later by the chief for having been guilty of assault."

Fired and Reinstated Men.

"On Oct. 4, Reilly fired the chief of the Ponce detective force and one of his subalterns, for what he said was a most serious reason, and 10 days later, Oct. 14, reinstated them both."

"On Oct. 8, he promoted the district chief of Carolina; on the 10th he dismissed him and on the 12th he reinstated him, without consulting the Chief of Police."

"He has kept the courts, disorganized the police, he went a step further. He selected his friend, a deported Spanish 'red,' as his constant companion and friend, introducing him to the people of Porto Rico (who knew him better than Reilly did) as a 100 per cent American. This man's record is well known in Washington."

"He is thus laying the seeds for one of the greatest strikes the island ever had."

Appointments Criticized.

"Regardless of the fact that Porto Rico has organic act which provides that the appointments made by the Governor shall be with the advice and consent of the Senate, he has made his appointments expecting that they would be rejected by the Senate."

"Had his selections for appointment been good, less criticism would have been attached to them; but he

RESERVATION TO 4-POWER PACIFIC TREATY DEBATED

Committee Indicates Approval of Provision for Congress to Act on Adjustments Under Pact.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—A reservation to the four-power treaty, providing that no "adjustments or understandings" reached under its provisions shall be binding without the consent of Congress, was debated for two hours by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today without action, but with a majority of the members indicating their general approval.

Senator Brandegee, Republican of Connecticut, offered the reservation and committee members said the discussion developed that even Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the committee chairman, and one of the American delegates to the arms conference, was favorably disposed toward its adoption.

Senator Fournier, Democrat of Ohio, presented a substitute covering about the same ground, but the committee reached no vote on either proposition.

No Call for Hughes.

By some committee members it was predicted after the meeting that the Brandegee reservation would be adopted by a virtually unanimous vote after some further discussion and that other reservations which have been tentatively drafted by various senators would be withheld until the treaty comes into the Senate. It was said a favorable report on the reservation attached might be voted tomorrow.

Consideration of reservations began in the committee after there had been a short discussion of President Harding's message declaring he "could not see the necessity of the records asked for in connection with negotiation of the treaty."

Senator Hitchcock, Democrat, of Nebraska, author of the resolution of inquiry, was absent from the committee meeting, and no one brought forward the suggested project of summoning Secretary Hughes to tell what he knows of the negotiations.

The Brandegee Resolution.

The text of Senator Brandegee's reservation, which is the first to be proposed to any of the arms conference treaties, follows:

"The Senate advises and consents subject to the following reservation, which is to be made a part of the instrument of ratification, to-wit:

"The United States understands that it assumes no obligation, either legal or moral, to maintain the rights of relation to the insular possessions or insular dominions of any of the other high contracting parties and that the consent of the Congress of the United States shall be necessary to any adjustment or understanding under article I or by which the United States is to be bound in any way, and that there is no obligation either legal or moral to give such consent."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 21.—The Supreme Court in banc today appointed Dorsey W. Shackelford, former Congressman, as commissioner to take testimony in the suits of the State against the St. Louis planing mill men's organization and the building material men, under the anti-trust act.

The mill men's case will be taken up first, in about one month, the first hearing probably being held here. Commissioner Shackelford has been hearing testimony in the suit against the Lumber Trade Exchange, the final hearing of which is set for March 1, in St. Louis.

FIANCE'S RELATIVE CALLS; M'CORMICK FAMILY NOT IN

More Kinfolk of Swiss Riding Master Bob Up in Chicago and in Milwaukee.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—John D. Rockefeller has given his approval to the engagement of his granddaughter, Mathilde McCormick, 18 years old, daughter of Harold F. McCormick, to Max Oser, Swiss riding master, it became known here today. It is also reported that he has expressed a wish that Oser become an American citizen.

New alleged relatives of Oser appeared in Chicago yesterday in the persons of Mrs. Asquith Pol, her daughter, Lottie Doerchner, and Mrs. Doerchner's 9-months-old baby. Mrs. Pol says her husband was a first cousin of Max Oser.

Emil Burgi, the first Chicagoan to announce his relationship to Oser, called at the McCormick home yesterday, but was informed that McCormick and his daughter, Mathilde, were not receiving on Monday. It was said they had left for Milwaukee.

"It is the custom in the old country," he told newspaper men camped about the McCormick home, "when a couple become engaged for all their relatives to call upon him, and all his relatives call upon her right away."

Oser's age still is a subject for debate, numerous persons here and at Milwaukee, who profess to be cousins, contending that the Swiss equestrian is 37 years old, while Howard A. Colby, friend of the McCormick family, maintains that he is only 40, as against first reports of an age of 48, thrice that of Miss Mathilde.

'YOUR AMERICAN GIRLS WILL MARRY ANYBODY,' SAYS MRS. ASQUITH

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.

MRS. MARGOT ASQUITH, wife of the former Premier of England, who is visiting Chicago, commenting on the international romance of Mathilde McCormick, said:

"Your American girls will marry anybody. That's because they're so adaptable. I presume. Our English girls, as a rule, don't marry outside their own country."

"As to Mathilde McCormick, I never heard of her outside what I've read in your Chicago papers. A daughter of a multi-millionaire, you say? Granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, the richest man in the world? Yes, yes, I know of him, surely."

To Mrs. Asquith this romance is only another phase of American life, "so much like the American," she said, "always so swift."

"International marriages are silly," she continued. "Nobody but an American girl could get on with a foreigner. I don't know why our girls prefer their own breed, but they do. Yes, I suppose she is one of your American flappers—performs her hands, wears her skirts up to her knees, and all that sort of thing. Well, I have never seen anything attractive in the American flappers. To begin with, they haven't pretty ankles. Our English shop girls have lots more style."

3 FATALLY BURNED WHEN AUTO IGNITES OIL FIELD GAS POCKET

By the Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 21.—W. H. Kelly and wife, and their 6-year-old daughter were fatally burned near Desdemona Sunday night, when their automobile stuck in a gas pocket.

An explosion and fire enveloping the automobile followed. Two other children, though badly burned, are expected to recover.

Kelly was a lease foreman for an oil company and came to Texas from Illinois.

The automobile, plunging into the hole where the gas had accumulated, caused an explosion, igniting the car, the occupants and the surrounding woods, which burned fiercely all night. The accident happened in the heart of an old oil field, which accounts for the gas accumulation.

TWO REPUBLICAN CLUBS IN FIFTEENTH WARD SEEK CHARTERS

Two organizations have petitioned the Circuit Court for charters under the name of the Fifteenth Ward Republican Club. The first application was filed Feb. 15 by James E. Renick, president; L. H. Miller, secretary; Calvin L. Hunt, treasurer; and Emma L. Dunlop, Edward C. Nye, Howard E. Miller, William J. Utley and W. J. Pausch.

The second application was filed yesterday by Henry Heier, president; Joseph C. Schroeder, vice president; Alice L. Pitcher, secretary; Theodore Hemmelsman, treasurer, and a number of others, including Circuit Judge Hogan.

The petitioners in the second case also filed an objection to the first petition being granted, setting forth that their organization had existed without incorporation for 15 years as the Fifteenth Ward Republican Club. With the objection, two of those who signed the first application, Edward C. Nye and W. J. Pausch, asked permission to withdraw their names from the petition.

The first application and the objection were assigned to Judge Ferriss, the second application to Judge Rutledge.

Family of Five Has Influenza.

A family of five suffering from influenza was received at the city hospital this morning. They are Morris Scissors, 41 years old, a shoemaker, of 2027 South Broadway, and his wife and three children, whose ages are 14, 11 and 2. This is a greater number than has been admitted in any month for a year. There have been two other cases at the hospital this month. Last month three influenza patients were admitted, and in January of last year, there were five.

ONE WITNESS AGAINST CAPT. KIRK APPEARS

De Soto Hotel Keeper's Testimony in Liquor Case Vague —25 Appear for Defense.

One witness, whose testimony was vague and inconclusive, appeared against Capt. Patrick Kirk of the Soudard street station, and Sgt. Charles Kelly, when their trial before the Police Board, on charges of neglect of duty and becoming conceited, in De Soto, Mo., last July, was begun this afternoon. About 25 witnesses appeared for the defense. Mayor Kiel sat with the board at the hearing.

The substance of the charge, which was placed against the two officers by Inspector Gerk, was that they took a quantity of liquor with them when they went to Hillsboro to testify in a murder trial, and that they drank whisky in the dining room of the Commercial Hotel at De Soto. An affidavit with the signature of W. A. Byington, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel, De Soto, was produced in support of the original charge.

Affidavit Signed by Clerk.

Byington was called as a witness before the board today, and his first statement was that he did not sign the affidavit, but that his name was signed by the clerk in the hotel. Gerk got him to admit that the affidavit had been read to him, and that he swore to it, and asked the clerk to sign his name.

Byington said, when questioned about the allegations of fact, that on the day in question, July 11 last, there was a circus in De Soto, and the town was full of people, and there were several highball parties in the hotel dining room. He said he could not be certain that the two police officers took part in any such party, and he was not even sure that they were in the dining room at any given time. He knew they were in the hotel because their names were on the register, but he did not remember their faces and could not swear to anything that they did.

25 Witnesses for Defense.

The board had expected to hear other witnesses from De Soto and other places outside St. Louis, but they were not present, and it was proposed to adjourn the hearing until another day. Capt. Kirk, however, pointed out that about 25 witnesses for him had come from De Soto, Hillsboro and other places, at their own expense, and asked that they be heard and excused. The board decided to hear Kirk's witnesses.

The first witness presented for Capt. Kirk was R. A. Frazier of Hillsboro, attorney for the defense in the murder trial for which Kirk went to Hillsboro. He testified that he heard rumors that St. Louis police witnesses were drinking, and that he investigated the rumors carefully, intending, if he could establish such a fact, to use it against the State's case. He said he could find no tangible evidence to support the rumors.

Man Found Guilty of Having Two Wives Pleaced With Verdict of Jury.

William H. Freeman, 59 years old, was found guilty of bigamy and sentenced to three months in jail and to pay a fine of $100 by a jury whose sealed verdict was opened in Judge Kilborn's court today.

"Oh, that's easy," Freeman said to a Deputy Sheriff when the verdict was read.

The complaint was made against him by Mrs. Ellen Hughes Freeman, who resided at 6720 Michigan avenue. He was married to her in 1906, she said, and his son, L. V. Freeman, testified to this and also that his father married Bridget Grattan, 44, of Belleville, Ill., June 10, 1921, without having been divorced. Mrs. Bridget Grattan Freeman testified that when she married Freeman she did not know he had a wife living.

BONUS, WITH FUNDS FROM BEER TAX OR BOOTLEGGING?

figures of 1914 on beer alone, and imposing a tax of 20 cents a gallon, the total amount that would be raised would be $408,000,000. If that was the consumption of beer in the face of competition with distilled spirits, how much more beer would be consumed if distilled spirits are absolutely prohibited? At least $200,000,000 more taxes would be available, answers Hill. This grand total of $608,000,000 that might be available out of beer taxes is confirmed by Treasury Department experts.

Most officials have no doubt that they could raise at least $600,000,000 a year this way. Whether or not light wines should be included and a tax on 40 cents per gallon put on the latter, is not altogether as easy a problem to settle as the beer question. The trouble is that the alcoholic content of light wines would have to be reduced to a point which would make them "non-intoxicating," within the meaning of the Constitutional amendment.

The advocates of the beer tax, however, approach the subject from the viewpoint of conformity with the Eighteenth amendment. The Constitution forbids the manufacture of "intoxicating beverages." The Supreme Court of the United States has decided that Congress has the power to determine what percentage of alcohol may be included in a beverage without making it intoxicating. The Volstead law says one-half of one per cent shall be the limit, though most members of Congress will admit that if the alcoholic content were increased two or three-quarters per cent, the beverage would still be non-intoxicating.

To get money enough to pay the gold bonus, it would require a simple resolution of Congress of about 50 words amending the Volstead act so as to permit 2.75 per cent beer, and the revenue laws could also be amended so as to put a tax of 20 cents per gallon on the beverage. The whole thing would be a simple procedure if the prohibition forces did not have a hold on members of Congress tight enough to cause the latter to hesitate.

INVESTORS ARE TOLD TO "INVESTIGATE FIRST"

Edward L. Greene, of Cleveland
Better Business Commission,
Talks on Securities.

Some simple rules for guidance of persons who would invest their savings in commercial securities were laid down in an address by Edward L. Greene, manager of the Cleveland Better Business Commission, at the opening session of the four-day semi-annual meeting of the National Better Business Commission, at Hotel Statler today. The national commission is the parent body of about 25 Better Business Bureaus, including which have as their object the protection of investors.

The commission is under the jurisdiction of the National Vigilance Committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

"Investors should remember that the successful industrial enterprise has five essential elements," Greene said. "These elements are product, organization, capital, production and distribution, and earnings. If an enterprise has not all these factors it is a speculation and the investor in it may lose his money."

Matters to Be Considered.
"Consider the value and necessity of the product and if it is actually being made," Consider who the directors are and find out the character of the organization. Ask why they are seeking capital, and what percentage is for plant and what for working funds, working capital is essential. Remember that new and novel methods of production and distribution are generally expensive. Earnings increased during the war, may not be kept up now. The next time a stock salesman comes to see you, ask him about these matters. Always remember the motto of the Better Business Bureau—'Before you invest, investigate.'"

Greene discussed the latest method of stock swindlers, who now telephone their prospective victims and by their suave talk induce them to send orders for stock and good securities as collateral to guarantee payment. When the bad stock cannot be sold at a profit, Greene said, the victims generally lose their collateral.

This week has been designated locally as "Truth Week" by the St. Louis Advertising Club, which also has caused other cities to give some recognition to the idea. The meeting of Better Business Bureau executives is to discuss plans for making "Truth Week" a national event each year hereafter, by presidential proclamation. It would be held during the week in which occurs Washington's birthday and would foster a perpetuation of the ideals of truth in the commercial world.

Charles H. Mackintosh of Chicago, president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, is a guest at the meeting. He said today that the period of business depression had induced numerous merchants, therefore truthful and conservative in their advertising, to become reckless in their published announcements, with a consequent loss of prestige and of business once the public became aware of the change. He said that reckless and untruthful advertising of this character was being overcome, if for no other reason, by its ultimate effect on profits.

Law Enforcement Needed.
Mackintosh declared that more blue sky laws for the control of "wild cat" stock sales were not so much needed as enforcement of those in existence. Enforcement is not so strict as it should be, he declared, because of lack of facilities. He advocated the extension of enforcement powers to the officers of banks.

H. J. Kenner of New York, director of the National Vigilance Committee, said that the promotion of stock in commercial aviation companies is coming to light as a new method of getting the money of gullible persons. Several concerns that have started selling airplane stock have proposed lines to run between several Middle Western cities, one of those mentioned being St. Louis, and the stock salesmen have uttered misleading expressions about "Government co-operation" and "official connections."

Melville L. Wilkinson, a director of the Associated Retailers, spoke on "Truth in Advertising" at a luncheon of the Advertising Club at Hotel Statler today. One of the executives here is F. M. Willson, manager of the Fort Wayne (Ind.) Better Business Bureau, who, as naval recruiting officer in St. Louis in 1918, enlisted 5500 men in three months. Various executives agreed today that the co-operation of the newspapers is helping the work for truth in advertising.

LABORER IN CEMENT PLANT IS TOLD HE IS HEIR TO ESTATE

Search of a Year Ends When Legatee Is Located at Cape Girardeau.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., Feb. 21.—Jacob Kirchoff, laborer in a cement plant here, was notified today that he is one of three heirs to the large estate of his uncle, Casper Kirchoff, in Pennsylvania. The fortune will amount to more than $200,000, Kirchoff believes.

A search that has been going on since his uncle died early in 1929 at Pittsburgh, Pa., and which has practically covered the United States, ended today, with the finding of Kirchoff. He had not seen his uncle since 1889, when he saved his life in the relay station at East St. Louis, by pushing him out of the way of an approaching train. He did not know of the death of his uncle until informed today. Kirchoff came here from East St. Louis, where he was born and reared.

FRESNO, Cal., Feb. 21.—Reported activities of an alleged Ku Klux Klan organization in this district is under investigation, according to a story in a local newspaper today, by the police at Taft and the District Attorney at Bakersfield, following the complaint of Eli Andrews that he was tarred and feathered by unmasked, unidentified men. Shortly before the alleged mistreatment of Andrews, printed warnings, headed "Ku Klux Klan," are said to have been distributed in Taft.

ADVERTISING URGED AS LIVESTOCK REMEDY

Railway Man Says Industry Must Educate the Public to Eat
Meat Again.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—The livestock industry of the country needs advertising more than it needs lower freight rates, Charles Dillon, assistant to the chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, said yesterday in a statement issued by the association.

"The indifference of meat producers," the statement said, "to the developments going on right under their noses is largely responsible for most of the depression from which their business has been and is suffering."

"Not until very recently has anyone in that industry sensed the truth and even then the situation was accurately analyzed by the packers and not by the livestock men."

"During the war in Europe the American Government, through its own agencies and in every publication in the nation appealed to the people not to eat meat. We had meatless days, porkless days, beefless days. The National Dairy Association spent literally hundreds of thousands of dollars advertising the comparative nutritive value of milk, cream and cheese and butter and ice cream."

"What was the result? The per capita consumption of dressed meat and lard in the United States was 181 1/2 pounds in 1920."

"In 1929 it had fallen to 154 1/2 pounds, a decrease in two decades of 27 1/2 pounds per capita annually. This was a loss of potential meat consumption of almost 2,000,000,000 pounds."

"Railroad rates had nothing to do with this situation."

"As the demand for meat decreased very naturally the prices fell. At one time last fall retail meat prices in Cleveland, O., and Salt Lake City were identical. Other elements in the 'ruination' of the livestock industry are the cost of feed in transit and in the markets, the cost of yardage and commission charges."

"Throughout this entire period of decreasing prices and lessening demand the livestock industry did not spend a dollar to overcome the depression. The people have been educated away from meat and a reduction in freight rates won't put them back on the old ration. In the absence of the patriotic appeal they can be trained in only one way to use it again, and that is by advertising, precisely as the dairy industry and the makers of prepared substitutes for meat have done."

ANTHRAX PATIENT RECOVERS

The condition of George Schreck, 19 years old, of 2740 Cherokee street, who was taken to the city hospital several weeks ago after he was found to have anthrax, has shown so marked an improvement following treatment with antianthrax serum that his discharge from the hospital is expected within a week. Schreck contracted the disease from the horsehair brushes of a shaving brush.

Physicians say he is almost fully recovered. He will be held until a small ulcer on his cheek, which was the point of infection, has disappeared.

Hofman Exonerated in Auto Case.
Julian L. Hofman, 2540 Pershing avenue, whose automobile knocked down Henry R. Thomas, 6 years old, of 2523 1/2 Ohio avenue, Nov. 21 last, near Gravois and Ohio avenues, was acquitted of a charge of felonious wounding yesterday by a jury in Circuit Judge Miller's court. Thomas and several other boys were crossing the street on their way to a parochial school. Hofman stopped his automobile and carried the boy into a drug store and called a physician. The boy suffered minor lacerations and bruises. Hofman testified he was driving slowly in the school zone and could not avoid the accident.

Increases the action of the intestines

Hundreds of men and women have already found freedom from laxatives by eating Fleischmann's fresh yeast.

Doctors are now agreed that proper elimination of waste matter should be brought about by food. One doctor comes right out and states plainly that the indiscriminate use of cathartics is one of the causes of constipation.

Physicians all over the country are recommending Fleischmann's fresh yeast because it is a fresh food, rich in those elements which keep the intestines healthy. In one series of tested cases, normal function was restored in from 3 days to 5 weeks.

Try it out for yourself. Begin today by adding 2 or 3 loaves of Fleischmann's Yeast to your everyday diet. Keep it up and see how normally and regularly your intestines act. Be sure it's Fleischmann's Yeast—the familiar tin-tin package with the yellow label. Place a standing order with your grocer.

Action at Clayton Against Douglas
Baker Remains of Shooting at Maplewood Saturday Night.

A warrant was issued at Clayton yesterday afternoon by Justice of the Peace Stecker charging Douglas Ba-ment agent, with assault with intent to kill, it being alleged that Baker shot Henry Kraemer, proprietor of a saloon at 7343 Manchester road, on the saloon Saturday night. The complaint was sworn to by Kraemer's son, Henry Kraemer Jr.

The raid, as has been told, was led by Gus O. Nations, chief prohibition who was accompanied by five assistants. The saloon proprietor and customers engaged in a demonstration against the officers and a fight followed. One shot was fired and it struck Kraemer in the left leg, breaking the bone between the ankle and the knee. Kraemer was taken to a hospital.

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jal Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities. Jal Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

YOUNG MARBURG'S EYES REMOVED TO SAVE LIFE

Son of Former Minister to Belgium Said to Have Chance for Recovery After Gun Accident.

By the Associated Press. NOGALES, ARIZ., Feb. 21.—Following an operation in which both eyes were removed, Theodore Marburg Jr., son of the former Minister to Belgium, had improved this evening to such an extent that attending physicians were hopeful that he would recover from a bullet wound in the head, suffered last Friday at Magdalena, Sonora, Mexico, according to information received tonight. Marburg is in a hospital at Magdalena.

Physicians and close friends of young Marburg assert they believe he has a chance for recovery. He was shot through the head Friday night while in his rooms over the offices of the Marburg-Kibbey Cattle Co. at Magdalena. A telegram to American Consul P. J. Dyer at Nogales, Sonora, described the shooting as accidental. It said he dropped a revolver which was discharged when it struck the floor.

Marburg's father, who is on his way from Baltimore, Md., is expected to reach the bedside of his son Wednesday. Mrs. W. Breckford Kibbey, wife of the wounded man's business partner, is at Tucson, Ariz., awaiting the arrival of the elder Marburg. She will accompany him to Magdalena. The trip probably will be made on a special train. Mrs. Kibbey telephoned to Nogales asserting she had received a telegram stating that Marburg's condition has improved and that hope for his recovery has not been abandoned.

The State Department at Washington, evidently informed that young Marburg had expired, asked Consul Dyer today to take charge of the body. The Consul sent a reply stating he still is alive.

CONSULAR LEAGUE REVIVAL URGED TO ADVANCE ST. LOUIS

Salvador Representative Suggests Reorganization of Body and Publication of Magazine.

Rafael Garcia Escobar, Consul of Salvador in St. Louis, has written to H. M. E. Pasmazoglou, Greek Consul and secretary of the Consular League of St. Louis, suggesting a reorganization of the league to increase its activities on behalf of St. Louis as a purchasing center for foreign merchants. He states that, so far as he knows, no meetings of the league have been held for a year or more.

He also suggests the publication of a consular magazine, in which each Consul could tell in his own language the trading opportunities St. Louis offers to his countrymen, and in which there might be printed in English information as to the resources and opportunities in the various countries. He says that "neighboring states are drawing away from this city its commercial power without its own merchants and industries taking note of the fact," and adds that this condition is due to the want of initiative and effective advertising.

Dry Agent States Methods Assailed by Ex-Commissioner Arose Before He Took Office.

Gus O. Nations, chief Federal prohibition enforcement agent in this district, yesterday issued a statement in which he said the criticism of prohibition enforcement methods made by Irvine Mitchell, in a statement explaining his resignation as United States Commissioner, did not apply to him because he had been in office only 18 days when Mitchell resigned. Mitchell said this was true, and it is understood his criticism was directed largely at the police.

USE COCOANUT OIL FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multisilf coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonful of Multisilf will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multisilf coconut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Multisilf.

buyers representing wholesale and retail merchants throughout the country now in New York is far in excess of the number usual at this time of year. These buyers are making purchases far larger than those on their last trip a few months ago, but they are still buying conservatively. The largest purchases are being made by buyers for the basement or bargain departments of big retail stores.

An excellent business in steel is being done by dealers with warehouse stocks in this region. Building has taken a spurt ahead with the ending of the recent cold spell, and hardware is evidently in better demand. Manufacture of silks has shown no improvement as mill men are awaiting stabilization of the raw silk market before considering expansion of production.

The cloak and suit industry is showing appreciable betterment and sales of men's clothing for spring have been of fair volume. The pottery, china and glassware factories have satisfactory orders booked ahead. Paints and oils are in better demand.

PRICES AT RECORD LEVEL.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Prices of agricultural products in the Northwest climbed to record levels for the year during the last week, and this has confirmed a growing confidence that this territory will enjoy a substantial business revival this year. Live-stock producers foresee profitable spring sales. Flour prices have responded to exceptional gains in the wheat market and railroads report greatly increased freight traffic. Building contractors here predict new records this spring in state, municipal and private building operations.

Wholesale grocers throughout this district are receiving large and more frequent orders, both from city and rural customers. Wholesalers and jobbers handling hardware, shoes, drugs, confectionery and general merchandise report sales surpassing those for a similar period last year. Food costs in the Twin Cities dropped 6 per cent in January. The steady improvement in the financial situation is shown in the decline in requests for new loans from the War Finance Corporation. Requests for loans to help out the farmer have fallen off 75 per cent. These loans, in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, totaled $22,592,000 on Feb. 15.

RETAIL TRADE IMPROVES.
PITTSBURGH, Pa.—Growth of payrolls in the industrial plants of this district is having a favorable effect on retail trade and general business. With the prospects bright for additional expansion, merchants are pushing winter goods off their shelves in preparation for special drives.

No anxiety is felt here over the prospect of the coal miners' wage scale controversy. Operators declare openly that the doom of the United Mine Workers has been sounded. Consumers are of the belief that the nonunion fields can produce sufficient fuel to cover any period the union mines may be forced to close. In the Connellsville district coal production has shown an increase of about 11 per cent in the last week and of 25 per cent since Jan. 1. Producers and brokers state increased production in industrial plants has broadened demand. Steel production made the most marked recovery in several months during the last week. Shading of prices is in evidence in several lines, as competition is keen for large orders. It is believed production today is above the high level reached last fall.

GLASS.
PITTSBURGH, Pa.—More orders for window glass were received during the last week than for any similar period since Jan. 1. Glass containers and pressed and blown glassware are also in better demand.

B. & O. SHOPS RESUME.
CUMBERLAND, Md.—Operations at the heavy repair shops of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad were resumed on a 50 per cent basis today. It is expected that the remainder

History Shows How High Hupmobile Stands

Even a hasty glance at automobile history brings out two significant facts with startling distinctness.

One is that millions of cars of nearly 300 makes have been marketed in a remarkably short time.

The other—more startling and significant by far—is the astonishingly few cars which have built such a solid, enduring reputation for goodness and value as everyone knows the Hupmobile to enjoy.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

which began last fall is being maintained.

LUMBER.
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—Lumber mill operations in California have been delayed by bad weather and the movement from the mills has been checked somewhat, but demand for local building operations is on the increase.

COAL AND COKE.
UNIONTOWN, Pa.—Spot furnace coke ranges from $2.90 to $3, with spot foundry at $3.75 to $4.25. A contract for furnace coke running to July 1 has been made at $3.25, while 75 cars for prompt delivery sold at $3.25 and 10 cars at $3.50.

SHOES.
PORT WORTH, Tex.—The shoe business, which has dragged so in this territory that many salesmen were withdrawn from the road, is beginning to improve. Inquiries and mail orders from country merchants indicate they are willing now to buy in sizeable quantities. Shoe men declare the public in Texas and Oklahoma is abandoning the idea that the shoe dealers are making excessive profits at present prices.

NEW YORK.—The diamond market is showing more strength in conformity with the rise in foreign exchange. The price of platinum has fallen $5 an ounce, platinum being quoted at $90, platinum with 5 per cent iridium at $85, and with 10 per cent iridium at $100.

NON-FERROUS METALS.
WATERBURY, Conn.—The taking over of the American Brass Co. by the Anaconda Copper Co. has been completed and the plants of the American company now are operating as part of the Anaconda system of mines, smelters and mills.

COTTONS.
BOSTON.—The dullness in the cotton goods trade has resulted in many New England mills accumulating reserve stocks of goods. New Bedford, the fine goods manufacturing center, is operating at about 60 per cent of capacity, and Fall River, making slightly lower grade products, is running at about 70 per cent.

CHESTER, S. C.—Two of the Carhart denim mills in this district suspended operations this week. The cause assigned was inability to dispose of denims at the present time.

FRUIT.
SAN FRANCISCO.—Heavy planting of fruit trees is reported from all parts of California. In the north apricots, grapes and figs take the lead, with prunes and peaches also in favor.

STEEL.
CHICAGO.—Steel production reached its highest point in weeks this week in the Chicago area, the mills operating at between 85 and 90 per cent of capacity.

CANNED GOODS.
CHICAGO.—A large quantity of canned tomatoes from surplus army supplies is being offered in this market by an Eastern broker at low prices.

FLOUR.
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Flour prices have advanced sharply in the last week, reflecting the strength in wheat, but the demand is not large.

BUTTER.
CHICAGO.—Signs point to a lower trading level in butter in the local market, with the only buying done on a hand-to-mouth basis.

AUTOMOBILE PARTS.
MARYSVILLE, Mich.—The American Bushings Co., which provides brass piston bushings for Ford and other large automobile manufacturers, has received a volume of orders, and now is operating with two shifts.

DECLINE IN WHOLESALE PRICES SHOWN IN JANUARY

Labor Department's Index Number Was 148, on Basis of 100 for January in 1913.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Wholesale prices on the average approached slightly nearer the 1913 level in January, according to information made public today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor. The bureau's weighted index number, based on 100 for the 1913 wholesale price level, stood at 148 last month, compared with 149 in December and 147 in January, 1931.

Prices generally last month represented a decline over the same month of a year ago of 16 per cent. Of all commodity groups, agricultural products alone showed an advance in prices during the month, gaining approximately 2 1/2 per cent. In all other groups decreases were recorded ranging from 1/4 to 1 per cent for building materials to 3 1/4 per cent for food. Clothes and clothing declined 1 per cent, chemicals and drugs 1 1/2 per cent, metals and housefurnishings goods 1 1/2 per cent, and fuel and lighting materials over 2 per cent. In the group of miscellaneous commodities the decline in average prices was 1 1/2 per cent.

HARVEY PREDICTS RATIFICATION OF ARM TREATIES

two of the many outstanding phases. No Sacrifices Were Made. "Much has been said from time to time of the sacrifices by various Powers respecting especially their relative importance. Be it known at the outset that for generosity, thus implied, the United States deserves no credit whatever. She made no sacrifice—none. She scrapped many costly warships, abandoned vast projects of fortification, snuffed out what was left of her great army. They constituted a boon, they reduced taxes, released present millions and future billions of dollars for development of lands and industries, transferred brown and skill from floating slaughter houses to shops and factories, for the building of homes, churches and schools. So far from entailing loss they produced only gain to ourselves and to the world.

"Peace on the Pacific is assured for years, probably for all time—so very an accomplishment that I simply cannot let it pass without mention and when I say assured, I speak from information, the exactness of which is beyond question, that the ratification of these compacts, all of them, by the British Parliament is no more certain than their ratification by the Senate of the United States—and that much sooner than commonly anticipated.

Revelation of Peoples. "To my mind, my Lords and gentlemen, the greatest achievement of the Washington conference was no achievement at all; it was revelation—the revelation of Great Britain to America and of America to Great Britain. All of us here have acclaimed for years what we rejoiced to believe was the natural affinity, the increasing fraternity of our two peoples. To utter a misleading word to pronounce oneself a heretic. If evidence were not wholly manifest at times, emotions were nevertheless, felt to be sure and true. They were in the air; they enveloped beings with atmospheric attributes which inspired wistful convictions.

"I have believed this for years; I believe it now.

"But we have to realize all things, even the strongest feelings are matters of degree; human passions, no less than human bodies, are subject to influences of heat and cold.

"Material no less than spiritual conditions and tendencies must be reckoned with in attempting to perfect even the most natural relationship; stern experience teaches us that harsh actualities are as vital in establishing comradeship as the tenderest impulses.

"Whereas tonight I rejoice mightily in the belief that the inviolable but impelling forces in the air, which have so long sustained us Britons and Americans, have at last been supplemented and strengthened immeasurably by the discovery of a complete mutuality of interest, self-interest, if you like, upon the face of the earth. We stand now on solid ground.

"To each blessed country, the other has been revealed in all intelligence, fairness and honor, and the sight in the eyes of God and man, is good. Ask Mr. Balfour and his associates if, approaching the shores of America a second time, they would feel the slightest misapprehension of trust or misgiving? Ask Mr. Hughes and his associates if in like circumstances there would live in their minds the remotest suspicion of arrogance or meanness or unworthy subtlety in the eyes of their visitors. Ask, or as we say in the United States, sense your people, my Lord chairman, simultaneously if you can find a way to sense mine.

Enhancement of Regard. "Can you question for a moment the truly amazing enhancement of respect, regard and trust each great controlling multitude has for the other since Mr. Balfour left us here on the night of Oct. 21 to sail for America? Not liberty alone, not union alone, but liberty and union.

one and inseparable" was the most striking dictum of America's greatest Senator of America's greatest need, and such in fairly accurate parallel is the chief requirement of our two working and trading countries today.

"Not pleasing sentiment only, not stern reality only, but the two combined are requisite for that full understanding we have so long been seeking, which now seems attained through the demonstration of the simple fact that whatever benefits one English-speaking people must inevitably be helpful to the other. That is the lesson of the revelation of Washington."

"It was not your tact, Mr. that won your triumph; it was your truth. Your ordeal, I ventured to predict on the eve of your departure, would not be of battle, but of faith. Such it proved to be. You kept faith; so did we. You will continue to keep faith; so will we. Long life and great happiness, my Lords and gentlemen, to Mr. Balfour."

The valuation of the companies without deducting amounts necessary to put them in condition was fixed at $35,135,000, of which $288,000,000 represents the part of the Interborough and B. R. T. that is owned by the city. The amount required to rehabilitate the individual lines was fixed as follows: B. R. T., elevated and subway, $17,104,850; Interborough, including the Manhattan elevated, $16,314,197; N. Y. Railways, $15,176,926; Third Avenue, $4,877,406; Second Avenue, $22,565; Staten Island, $61,945; Queens companies, $1,627,972; miscellaneous companies, $75,276.

Chairman's Statement.
On receiving the valuations into the record of the commission, Chairman McAneny explained the basis on which they will be used as follows:

"The new securities of the A. Company properly guaranteed, will provide the sole basis of exchange and the valuations have been made in order to determine the amount of such securities that will go to each company, each company in turn accepting the plan will be required to take care of its own old securities of whatever value, whatever extent, in its own way, and through a reallocation to the holders of the new bonds."

"The commission is also required by the act to take into consideration the estimated future earning capacity of each of the railways. The degree of prospective earning capacity will be affected eventually by increase of cost this are bound to develop as the result of the orders the commission proposes to issue with relation to the standards of service."

"The exact ultimate value to be placed upon the properties will be made by the commission itself in the light of the report of the Bureau of Valuations, and of the hearings based upon that report and of the estimate of prospective earnings. The commission is of the opinion, however, that the figures con sulted with relations to earnings will not materially change or affect the aggregate of the valuations finally to be fixed."

The valuation bureau is making up the prospective earnings, putting the mon a basis of 100 per cent service instead of 65 per cent which it is admitted that some of the railroads render.

Copies of the report were forwarded to all the lines concerned and to stock and bond holders' committees of lines in receivership. Copies also were sent to each member of the Board of Estimate and to the Corporation Counsel.

When Two Leading American Dentists Developed a Dentifrice for the Ladies of the Court

How They Showed the World the Prime Essential of Tooth Lustre

ONE was an American from Maine, who was dentist to a European Court for more than a generation—a scientist, courtly but democratic.

The other was a leading dental scientist and bacteriologist of international reputation. It was this scientist who discovered and isolated mouth germs. He died before the World War started, but his books are still standard text books in the best dental colleges.

Members of an Illustrious Coterie

The two men were members of that historic coterie of American dentists of whom it is said that "no matter what utterance came from the mouths of the Kings and Premiers who ruled Europe, these Americans kept those mouths in order."

These two leaders in dental thought habitually wrote prescriptions for ladies of the court, court functionaries, and other prominent patients.

From this experience, and after years of joint laboratory work, they finally evolved the Formula of Kolynos Dental Cream. This formula was presented to the dental world, by one of these men, in a paper read in London before The American Dental Society of Europe.

The formula has been repeatedly published in leading dental and medical journals. For the first time in the history of dentistry, it was shown that grit in a dental preparation was not only unnecessary, but to be severely condemned, and that the elimination of mouth bacteria was the prime essential of tooth lustre and mouth hygiene.

Dentists and Doctors

This prescription—the formula of Kolynos, is today known to and respected by dentists and physicians the world over.

The dissolving of the fatty film by Kolynos Dental Cream, the elimination of mouth bacteria, the polishing of teeth without the use of grit, are today a familiar story to dentists.

Because of the hygienic mouth condition which it produces Kolynos Dental Cream has been exceedingly useful to professional men, hospitals and health boards, in all enlightened countries. It is also used and prescribed by leading dental surgeons in their treatment of pyorrhea.

This Kolynos Dental Cream, first developed for the ladies of the court and used by them to preserve the brilliant lustre of their teeth, has become a world-wide necessity, now being extensively sold in seventy-five countries.

Use Kolynos at least twice a day according to directions. Have lustrous teeth and mouth happiness, knowing that scientific sincerity is back of the preparation you are using.

TYPE and paper are a barrier that shuts from view the man that talks to you through an advertisement. But through the type and paper a real man is talking.

Behind the advertisement is a man

WHEN we realize that an advertisement is in fact a man to man talk we begin to get a human slant on advertising and look at it in a warm and personal way.

Some man by his labor and endeavors has reached a position where he can be of service to you or by his untiring effort has produced something to add to your comfort, or by his skill as a tradesman is enabled to advantageously supply your wants.

These men, thoroughly in earnest, feel that when you know of their aspirations and accomplishments you will be interested.

So they use advertising—advertising the surest, quickest and most economical way of meeting you and telling you their stories.

These honest men who use advertising to honestly tell their story, ask the public to have faith in advertising.

And that the faith of the public in advertising be not flily placed, these business men know that it is necessary that all advertising be honest and truthful.

To accomplish this purpose leading business concerns of all the country, working with the advertising clubs, have established Better Business Bureaus—organizations working to the end of making all advertising truthful and of service to the public.

The Better Business Bureau is the ally of the public and the honest business man—the foe of the business crook who would debase advertising by betraying the reader.

The Advertising Club of Saint Louis

THE conference of managers of Better Business Bureaus now being held in your city will do much to encourage truth in advertising, truth in value-giving and fairness in merchandising. We and they ask your hearty co-operation in bringing about bigger and the opposition's sense of justice by means of a dramatic and nonviolent demonstration. As a "passive resister" you refuse to obey certain specific, limited provisions of a law and accept the consequences without protest—though it means a prison term.

The struggle precipitated by this action was long and stubborn. Gandhi himself served three prison terms. On one occasion, 1911, a provisional agreement was reached. But in 1913 "passive resistance" was revived when the terms of the agreement were not put into practice.

The struggle finally reached an end in 1914. An "Indian relief bill" was enacted into law. And Gandhi, though asserting that the Empire's own interests would one day demand full civic rights for the Indians in South Africa, declared the new law adequately removed the old abuses. This chapter of his life was ended. In July, 1914, he left South Africa for London, "with no bitter memories"—declaring that from the British he had received "not only hard knocks, but love and sympathy."

He left South Africa—and found England at war with Germany. War in Europe had broken out. Reaching London his first word addressed to Indians resident in England was to "do their duty" in the war.

He organized an Indian Field Ambulance Corps, and both he and Mrs. Gandhi (who had served with him throughout the struggle in South Africa) enrolled. But prison terms and hard work had broken his health, and at the insistence of his friends he returned to India.

He reached Bombay in January, 1915. He was given a great popular reception. The British Government decorated him for his "important and useful services" to the crown.

Denounced the Anarchists.

He had promised his friends that until he had spent a year familiarizing himself with conditions in the land from which he had so long been an exile he would make no public utterance. But he broke this promise, shortly, to denounce the anarchist movement in Bengal and to "reaffirm" his loyalty to the empire.

Gandhi's most ardent admirers, outside of India, include many of those whose sympathies were against Great Britain in the war or who did not think the issue mattered greatly. But Gandhi himself throughout his four war years in India stumped the land in the interest of the British army.

He organized one brief "passive resistance" movement, to be sure. But it was directed toward the correction of what seemed to him an unjust decision in a certain limited area known as the Kaira district—where crops had failed and peasant land was being confiscated for the inevitable nonpayment of taxes.

The British Government corrected the abuses Gandhi specified. And once the brief struggle was over, Gandhi—speaking directly to the Kaira people—appealed for "proof that you bear no hostility to the Government." He pleaded for enlistments in the army—"not 500 or 700, but thousands."

We find Gandhi just before the war was over still asking "absolutely unconditional and whole-hearted co-operation with the Government." He would not have his countrymen, he said, "whisper home rule or responsible government during the pendency of the war." He would have India "offer all her able-

White Outslugs Willie Jackson And Wins Verdict

Veteran Chicago Lightweight Surprises New York Fans by His Good Showing.

TO MEET LEONARD NEXT

Victor Is Promised Bout by Lightweight Champion, to Take Place March 17.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Charlie White of Chicago pulled a surprising come-back and earned the right to a battle with Benny Leonard for the lightweight championship of the world by soundly whipping Willie Jackson of New York in a smashing 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden last night. As a result White and Leonard will box March 17, at New York.

The bouts were under the direction of the American Legion, and a big bunch of killing doughboys from the hospitals around New York attended.

They saw one of the best lightweight battles the garden ring has provided this winter. Jackson had an advantage in the early rounds, but White coolly let him waste his strength in futile rushing, and then went in with determination when Willie was tiring.

It was largely a case of better condition and a rip-roaring punch. Jackson weighed 134½. White 135 pounds.

Jackson began in his usual whirlwind style, carrying the battle to the Chicago boy and whirling him around before a perfect maze of rights and lefts. White was content to wait for an opening, and when he did cut loose with a swing it carried something behind it.

White did a lot of jabbing in the second round, but Jackson wouldn't let him stay at long range and piled in with fierce uppercuts at close range. To avoid the shower White rushed into clinches and was cautioned for holding at the close of the round by Referee Art McGovern.

Jackson carried all before him in the third round, and White was forced to hang on. They went into a terrific exchange as the fourth opened and there was a perfect mist of fists. Half way through the round White rocked Jackson with a right swing, but the New Yorker's craft enabled him to avoid the worst of the storm. As the fourth round closed he received another buffet that shook him from head to heel.

White Out Over Eye. Jackson opened up a big gash over White's eye early in the fifth stanza, and a moment later White smeared Willie with the same kind of a slash.

The clinch in a fifth spray of red, both slugging like truck men.

The sixth was a fight in itself, the boys from the hospital and their friends all agreed. They pounded and punched like demons, but Jackson seemed tired. He was cautioned by the referee for hitting in the clinches and hooted by the crowd.

If the sixth round was a fight, the seventh was a rough house. Every blow known to the trade went whirling through the air. Jackson had the better of the early exchanges and then White clouted the New Yorker so fiercely on the chin that Willie had to back up.

White took the offensive in the eighth and ninth and Jackson answered either tired or "letting up" for the Westerner ran him around the ring continually and landed the harder and cleaner blows.

In a fierce rally in the tenth White not only outpunched Jackson but made him back up under fire, something the New York boy rarely does. Toward the close of the round Jackson seemed in distress, but charged in gamely and exchanged blows at close range.

Jackson was again warned for hitting in the breakaway in the eleventh round. He seemed to realize the tide was turning White's way and staged a desperate rally, clouting the Chicago boy with all he had. It wasn't a great deal, but it gave him the verdict for that frame.

They stood in midring and traded rights to the chin in the twelfth and neither budged.

White Floors Jackson. It was a case of a weak offense against a strong defense toward the close of the round. White staggered Jackson with rights and lefts to the head. He was over cautious or he might have ended the bout then and there.

They were half through the thirteenth, with Jackson staring and holding, when White landed a square right on his chin and Willie went flat on his back. He got up at the count of three and then went down again in the rain of blows. Again he refused to take the full count, staggering to his feet at six. As the bell rang he was taking a rain of wallop and swaying like a reed.

Jackson's stand in the fourteenth was wonderful. He not only covered up with all the craft of years in the ring, but actually fought back. He was beaten, however, from post to post and White tired himself trying for a knockout.

Jackson got a bad beating in the fifteenth and hung on the sides, but still he had strength to start off a knockout, although the decision was against him.

Carl Tremaine knocked out Harold Farese, one of the numerous leaders of New Jersey, in the third round of their encounter. Dave Rosenberg got the decision over Angie Rainer. There was not much to choose, but what margin there was belonged to the tireless boxer from Brooklyn.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 21.—By winning two series yesterday with averages above the 200 mark, Phil Wolf, Chicago, passed Tom Lindsey, celebrated Stamford (Conn.) entrant in the world's individual bowling tournament and is now in second place in the big pin meet and only a few points behind Babe Asher's famous hook artist, Jimmy Blouin. Lindsey split even in his matches last night, winning the odd game from Frank Kafora and losing to Bill Wernicke, both local entrants.

Otto Stein, the St. Louis entrant, is now well to the fore, in fifth position. Last night Stein lost four of five games to Sykes Thomas, St. Louisian, who is handicapped by a bad thumb.

The best scores of the tournament were turned in yesterday, practically every entrant averaging more than 200. The bowlers are all trying their hardest to pick up points for the finals, and, with the tightness of the race, every match is worth while.

Today and tonight's schedule will mean a great deal in deciding the individual champion of the tenpin game. Some of the best matches of the tournament, however, have been many real battles fought, are expected to be waged when top notches clash.

Smith vs. Hank Marino. On the first squad this afternoon two old rivals, Jimmy Smith, celebrated Milwaukee star now occupying fourth position in the standings, will clash with Hank Marino, who has been hot on the trail of the leaders for the past three days and is now edging his way to the top.

Marino holds high average for one series in the tournament, hanging up a world's tournament record last week of 242-3-5.

Jimmy Blouin, present leader of the tournament, will oppose Jack Reilly late this afternoon in what promises to be another great series.

On tonight's schedule the series between Phil Wolf and Jimmy Smith will be one of the most critical of the big pin meet. Both men are only a few points behind Blouin, who is holding the lead by a small margin.

Jimmy Blouin, present leader of the tournament, will oppose Jack Reilly late this afternoon in what promises to be another great series.

On tonight's schedule the series between Phil Wolf and Jimmy Smith will be one of the most critical of the big pin meet. Both men are only a few points behind Blouin, who is holding the lead by a small margin.

THE BONUS.

OUR Congressmen have shown us They're leary of the bonus; They'd like, no doubt To knock it out, But cannot dodge the onus.

The service boys demand it. The politicians planned it. And, out of luck, They take the buck And back and forth they hand it.

They may not want to do it, But if they don't they'll rue it; The farmers say And that's not all, And that's all there is to it.

While they are on the level And in their powers revel, It may be seen They're in between The deep sea and the devil.

TOUGH GOING. In the words of the immortal Gilbert—

WHEN the enterprising voter's on your collar, And telling you the way it should be done, You can bet a million rubles to a dollar,

The Solon's life is not a happy one.

WHY? A man high in the councils of the moving picture industry says that Hollywood is no better or no worse than New York or Sandusky, Ohio. Why pick on Sandusky?

TAXATION. W. A. R. taxation is vexation. State tax is as bad; The questionnaires produce gray hairs And drive the public mad.

QUITE SO. "Bishop Says Small Bet on Horse Is Forgivable." Headline, forgive our bets as we forgive our betters.

Between the draft and the graft the baseball magnates are somewhat up in the air.

All of the major league clubs having waived on him, Doc Johnston will go to the Athletics by the waiver route.

BACK TO THE SUBWAY. Pat Mullarky, subway motorman, and champion heavyweight of the New York car barns, was knocked down six times for the count of nine in the first round of his first professional fight and called it a day.

Where was the conductor when all that knocking down was going on?

"Dempsy Open for Engagement." Headline. Looks like more matrimonial entanglements for the champ.

The Cleveland fans seem to think that if Allan Sorcher has good year the Indians will go South with the pennant.

Al seems to have no trouble in finding the plate, but the location of the youngsters of the game who are championship timber and just as likely to take it this year as any other time.

Has Peculiar Style. Johnston has a most peculiar way of addressing his ball. I have never seen any other player go about things in quite the way he does it. He rests his clubbed just inside the ball, in the address, and to see him getting ready for a swing you would think he would surely miss the ball entirely on the down stroke. But he fools you. He not only hits it, but he connects with it for a terrible wallop. He has a fine ability to put a touch of drive, too, I noticed—a golfer is in the finished-off class, indeed, when he does this at will. It is a useful ability in curving the long dog-legs home, especially for the very long driver of Johnston's style.

With this peculiar manner of driving, unfortunately, I did not feel that I knew him intimately enough to inquire just why he did it that way. He also uses a palm grip of his club for long pushes on the ball. The reader can perhaps get a picture of how mightily this boy goes at his game from that significant fact about his grip.

Johnston, nevertheless, is a sterling shot maker. In the Western amateur he turned in a qualifying card of 144, which tied him with Ruddy Knappier. His opening chapter at the Westmoreland event last year was a 70, which is a low card indeed for the first time over that testing course.

Johnston's facial expressions and his style of play indicate that he means business on the course, and every time he looks in his opponent's direction his whole manner will flash the tip that he is out to win and doesn't intend to be beaten if he can help it. There is nothing about his place about Johnston on the links. He has all the earmarks of a coming champion.

Evans Tells Why He Lists Johnston As 7th Amateur

St. Paul Golfer, Accomplished Shotmaker, Has Fighting Qualities of a Winner.

By Charles "Chick" Evans Jr. (Copyright, 1932.)

I once attended a heavyweight prize fight to see the huge champion in action. In the first round his fist whizzed past his opponent's face with such terrifying force that the wind, it seemed, almost blew the other fighter over backward.

The bout ended officially in the second round, but in reality it ended the instant that great, mauling fist was slammed through the air a thousandth of an inch or so from the other fellow's chin. That effort, though wasted, revealed to all of us, and particularly to the fighting opponent up there in the ring, just how the champion went about his business. He was a hard fighter, possessed of a grim look and the determination that meant a hard day for anyone who contested his might.

When I think of Harrison Johnston, of St. Paul, who is, in my opinion, the seventh best amateur golfer in America today, I instinctively think of the afternoon when I beheld that powerful slash of the prize-fighting champion's fist. There is nothing about Johnston to suggest a professional pugilist, but somehow his whole game reminds me of that one terrific, powerful punch.

A Hard Man to Beat. Johnston is a hard golfer. He plays the game hard. He steps up to his shots with a hard, set face and he hits his ball a hard, resounding blow that sends it almost unbelievable distances. I saw him drive his ball over 400 yards in the Western Amateur championship in Chicago last summer. I managed to beat him in the semi-final of the Western Amateur, but I had as good a golf edge on that day as I ever had possessed or I should not have been able to do it.

Then, too, the Western amateur was early in the summer. By the time the national amateur came on, at St. Louis, in September, Johnston had improved his game a lot. The word passed around at the tournament that a whole of a golfer from St. Paul was likely to be among the fireworks at the finish—Johnston was the man who was meant. Then this superb shooter stepped forth and downed the great star of the East, Francis Quinlan. With that victory Johnston established himself thoroughly as one of America's leading amateurs. I question in my own mind if his game isn't worth perhaps a higher rating for him in my list of the leading amateurs, but I can't in fairness to the others give it to him right now. He has no championship, except that of the State of Minnesota, to his credit. However, it should be explained that he is very young and was not a championship contender until last summer. He no doubt will be on this year at Brookline with a bagful of stuff that will be hard to beat. Johnston is one of the youngsters of the game who are championship timber and just as likely to take it this year as any other time.

Has Peculiar Style. Johnston has a most peculiar way of addressing his ball. I have never seen any other player go about things in quite the way he does it. Wladek Zbyszko to Get Wrestling Title if He Beats Stecher Tonight

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Joe Stecher, the body-sciences expert, who formerly held the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, and Wladek Zbyszko, younger brother of the present title holder, will exchange grips and locks tonight in Madison Square Garden. The contest is to be decided by the best two falls in three.

Stecher and the younger Zbyszko met here two years ago, the former winning after a long struggle. Wladek has been promising the title to his brother, Stanislaus, if he defeats Stecher tonight. The elder Zbyszko has planned to retire in May.

Ed (Strangler) Lewis, another promoter, will engage Cliff Binckley while Dick Daviscourt and John Olin will meet in other matches.

Former Champion Knocks Out Asher

St. Louis Featherweight Experiences First "Kayo" of His Ring Career.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21.—Babe Asher, St. Louis bantamweight, failed to accomplish what Midget Smith, Johnny Buff and several others have done to Pete Herman, former bantamweight champion, last night. In fact, Asher was so badly beaten by the former little shoe-shine king that even Herman himself hollered to Asher's seconds to toss in the sponge.

Herman fought one of the kind of fights that made him a bantam champion. Asher had no chance against him. Herman tore in from going and literally smothered the St. Louis boy with one blow after another. He was down in the fifth, sixth and seventh rounds, and was helpless when the towel was tossed in.

Nicky Virgilio lost to Fred Brewster in six rounds and Pat Burke beat Al Johnston in the same number.

KAISER OFFERED MATCH WITH JACK SHARKEY AT WINDSOR (CANADA) CLUB. Frank Weiss of the Joe Levy boxing "table," announced this morning that "Peewee" Kaiser had just been offered a match with Jack Sharkey, at Windsor, Ontario, Canada, for St. Patrick's day. Kaiser's terms were forwarded to the Bordier City Athletic Club, which seeks the match.

The Kaiser stable is also trying to match Benny Levy with Pat Ryan, winner of this city. If Finnigan wins, Weiss said today, he will be given more consideration in his demand for a match with Kaiser, which Pat Ryan has been seeking.

WHEAT PRICES LOWER

LOCAL EXCHANGE

The grain market was irregular on the Merchants' Exchange today. After selling higher and over last night wheat futures closed lower and corn higher. Unfavorable crop reports and report of precipitation in winter wheat belt were conflicting influences. Profit taking was a factor. There was evening up over the holiday.

The winter wheat sold at unchanged prices while hard was 1c to 2c lower in December. Cash corn was steady to 1c higher. A slow sale. There was fair shipping and elevator demand for cars. Prices were 1c up to 1c lower.

What futures declined 1 1/2c to 2c after the opening while the local market was 1c to 1 1/2c higher. The market closed unchanged to 1 1/2c higher after noon was 1 1/2c to 1 3/4c higher. Know What You Are Buying

Do you realize when you buy 12 oz., or 3/4 of a pound of baking powder what it is actually costing you per pound. For instance—

60c for 12 oz. or 3/4 of a lb. equals 80c per pound

50c for 12 oz. or 3/4 of a lb. equals 67c per pound

30c for 12 oz. or 3/4 of a lb. equals 40c per pound

Did you ever stop to figure this out? It is something that every housewife should know because it shows the false economy of buying the 12 oz. or 3/4 pound can of baking powder—it shows the big price you pay per pound.

Do you know when you get 12 oz. you are not getting a full pound and what a full pound would cost?

Never ask for a can of baking powder—always ask for a pound when you want it.

Remember a large can of Calumet Baking Powder contains 16 oz. or a full pound.

Buy Calumet because you get more for your money—because it is the most economical of all leaveners—the best by test brand.

Carolyn Wells Tells How to Manage THE "PUNKIN EATER" HUSBAND

He Rules With a Rod of Iron—He Cuts the Marital Knot With a Lash of His Sword, and if His Wife Is Refractory He Puts Her in a Punkin Shell.

By CAROLYN WELLS.

AN AUTHENTIC historical narrative tells us that Peter, Punkin eater, had a wife and couldn't keep her; put her in a punkin shell.

And then he kept her very well. An earnest student of the above can't help admiring certain qualities that stand forth in the nature of Peter. His great strength of character, his power of quick decision, and of immediate achievement must be admitted by the most casual reader. And although some may hold that his inability to retain the lady's affection in the first place argues some defect in his makeup, yet, remembering the lady's youth and beauty (implied by the spirit of the whole poem), one must appreciate the way he conquered circumstances and proved himself master of his fate and captain of his soul.

Truly, the Punkin Eaters must have been a forceful race and quite able to defend their rights and rule their people.

It is, indeed, probable that the Cave Men were Punkin Eaters, for they not only kept their wives in a Punkin Shell of a cave, but dragged them there by the hair of their heads.

This might make the Punkin Eater Husband seem quite awe-inspiring, but, strangely enough, this type is held in high esteem by many otherwise sane women.

The greatest and most timid of the sex are frequently caught by the glamour and glory of a swash-buckling ruffian of a daredevil who mows down all obstacles in his path. And if his magnificent wrath be turned upon the object of his marital affection, that, too, is accepted.

A wife, beaten black and blue by an irate husband, said to a commiserating friend, "Oh, well, I black awful easy, anyhow."

"It might have been worse," added the friend, Pollyannically. "Oh, indeed, yes," said the wife.

But Clever Feminine Ingenuity Can Win Out in a Battle With Masculine Brute Force—Cultivate Helplessness, Make the Punkin Shell Attractive, and if Jollying Fails, Try Tears.

earnestly, "why, I might not have got married at all!"

The Punkin Eater Husband rules with a rod of iron. He cuts the Gordian knot, or the Marital knot, with a slash of his sword, and if his wife is refractory he puts her in a Punkin Shell.

The Punkin Shell may be a Fifth Avenue palace, a country mansion with 15 bathrooms, a city apartment or a tenement; no matter, a man's home is his castle, and therein he may immerse a wife as securely as the old feudal lords did their timid and shrinking chateaux.

By the Order's orders she is not allowed to look at another man or to talk to another woman, unless by his special dispensation.

He himself appears in the Punkin Shell when it suits his convenience to do so. He may be in a mood of silence or loquacity, of affability or irritability, and the wife must adapt her mood to his.

Should she ask, timidly, "Do you love me as much as ever?" he will very likely respond, "Oh hell, I love you more than life itself—now, shut up and let me read my paper!" or he may say, "No, I'm sick and tired of your pale, silly face!" and in either case she gazes at him admiringly as at a superior being.

Yet, owing to the total depravity of marital selections, it sometimes happens that the Punkin Eater Husband falls to the lot of a wife who doesn't enjoy being dominated and tyrannized over, who can't bring herself to worship the hand that smites her, the tongue that flays her.

For these there is a way out. As a rule great strength of muscle denies strength of intellect. Brawn denies brain. A clever feminine ingenuity can win out in a battle of masculine brute force. Remember Delilah and how she put one over on Samson.

First of all, cultivate helplessness. A big, capable man goes down at once before an inefficient, helpless little woman. Never lift a finger for yourself. If you must have one lifted, tell him which one and ask him to lift it for you. (In this way you get him under your thumb.)

Another good scheme is to make the Punkin Shell so attractive that he wants to stay there himself. This keeps him with you.

Urge him to bring a friend home with him, and, when he does so, quickly make of the friend a Tertium Quid. If the Punkin Eater objects, say, brightly, "What is home without another?"

Jolly him along, call him pet names, like Tootie or Deedy, and let him think he is the Kimpin of the Punkin Shell, while really he is the Minor Chord.

But, if you can't work this game (if he is a true Punkin Eater Husband you can't), then there's only one last resort.

That is never-failing even with the most masterful of the type. It is, of course, TEARS.

Use them sparingly, don't overdo it, and be careful to do it prettily. A sniffling nose and red eyes won't get you anywhere.

But great crystal drops, welling slowly up, and one or two spilling over on a self-flushed cheek, while two red lips quiver pathetically and a dear little chin trembles—this, 99 times out of 100, will turn the trick.

But if not, and if you are married to a Punkin Eater and want to stay so, there's little, but tears, that will tame him down in the least.

So, why worry? As a type they're not so bad. Remember, he's not a Fire Eater, or a Beef Eater, or a Frog Eater. Punkin Eaters are, of course, the best of the breed, and the most intelligent citizens. They are usually handsome and distinguished looking, and have a well-bred voice even when they swear at you.

So when one of them puts you in his Punkin Shell be thankful—and stay put!

"Out of Nowhere" A NEW ROMANCE

By Ruby Ayres

CHAPTER XI.

She turned away and left him standing there looking after her. He watched her climb to the top of the bus, then he walked on, an amused smile in his eyes; he had certainly never been spoken to so plainly in all his life and he was not at all sure that he did not like the experience. It was very late when Violet got back to Mrs. Higgs'. That worthy had given Ronnie his tea and had commenced undressing him. In her way, Mrs. Higgs was fond of children; there was a kind heart beneath her grim exterior, and Ronnie was beginning to discover it. He no longer found her one eye alarming; it rather amused him than otherwise; he asked her innumerable questions concerning the one she had lost; he could not imagine what she had done with it.

He was being buttoned into his little nightshirt when Violet entered the room; he was off Mrs. Higgs' lap in a second and across the floor he went, mumbling, "mummy-grin!" Violet caught him up in her arms and covered him with kisses. She had had a long day and a tiring day; she had been vexed and upset more than once, but now at the touch of his clinging arms she seemed to forget it all; she sat down, cuddling him to her, kissing him and laughing and talking all at once. Mrs. Higgs rose with dignity.

"I thought you wasn't coming home," she said ungraciously. She was rather hurt at Ronnie's preference for Violet, but not for the world would she have let it be known. "I'm thankful that you've come home," she said as she made for the door. "I've enough work of my own without fussing about after brats that don't belong to me." She shut the door, if not exactly with a slam, at any rate with great decision.

Ronnie was off his day's doings; he had blown soap bubbles in the kitchen; he had sailed his boat in the bath; he had played soldiers with Mrs. Higgs' pugs; he had even climbed up the stairs with her and watched her make the beds; he had had such a busy day his little legs ached; he was tired out.

He was asleep in less than three minutes after he was tucked into bed.

Violet tidied her hair; she knew she had no time for a meal; she had arranged to meet Leslie Martin at 8; not for the world dared she miss the appointment. She knew that it was safer to have him for a friend than an enemy.

But she was dead tired; she hardly knew how to stand when at last she found herself at Leslie's door.

Martin was late; he came in just as the clock pointed to the quarter past 8; he had evidently been running, and this was a time for sitting still. He knew that Violet didn't know that he was anywhere near. But

"Yes, I am, dead tired," she glided accepted his offer of a cup of coffee in the shop they had used the other night; she sat down wearily. "I hope you have good news for me," she said, forcing a smile.

He shook his head. "I am afraid not, Mr. Hastings is impatient; he wants to see you as quickly as I might. He wants the boy. He says he will employ other means if I do not bring him the boy in a week."

Violet went white to the lips; she felt as if some one had given her a blow over the heart; she had not expected this; she had hoped great things.

There was kindly concern in Martin's eyes; he had done his best. He tried to see the shock he had given her; he thought of the overbearing, arrogant way Hastings had treated him, and he wished that he had never undertaken the affair.

Violet recovered quickly; she drank the hot coffee. It seemed to put fresh life and vigor into her; her thoughts began to work quickly. She thought of Hastings as he had been that evening—willing, even anxious to be friends with her; she remembered the letter he had written to her; she remembered the interest in her, genuinely interested, to have done such a thing.

She spoke to Martin hurriedly. "He gives you a week? Well, will you give me five days? Let me have five days. I will not take the boy away. I give you my word of honor I will not do anything mean or underhand; you have been kind to me. I will be honest with you. Give me five days and then."

She drew a long breath. "If—if Mr. Hastings still wants me, Ronnie—I promise to give him 'up.' Her lips trembled, but her voice was quite steady. Martin held out his hand.

"I am so sorry for you. I only wish I could help you. I hate the whole business, but what am I to do?"

"You will give me the five days?" she asked again; her voice was agitated now. "That is all I ask—and then, if I am beaten," she shivered a little.

Martin's hand closed over hers. "You shall have the five days," he said.

Similar with the waitress who brought the ice. Altogether Olive was glad when the evening came to an end; she did not even enjoy the ride home in the taxicab which Mr. Green offered as a final apology; she left Mrs. Higgs' abruptly on the curb outside.

As she trailed dejectedly up the stairs carrying a candle, she met Violet coming down. Violet still wore her hat; she was flushed and tired looking; she held a letter in her hand.

Olive stared at her. "Where are you going?" she asked languidly.

"Only to the post; have you been to a theater?"

"Yes, we had circle seats." She let her gaudy evening cloak fall open to show her silk frock; she had bought it cheap at a bargain sale at Galtwick's; the cloak she herself had made from remnants; she was skillful with her fingers.

"You look very nice," said Violet kindly. She spoke more from habit than because she really thought so; she was really thinking that Olive looked overdressed, too grandly dressed. The influence of Madame and the well-cut gowns that Madame's young ladies wore had already trained her eye unconsciously.

Perhaps Olive guessed how perfunctory the words were; she frowned a little.

"I suppose you are very smart up at Violet's?"

"We all wear black frocks; come and see us one day."

"Oh, I don't know. I'm always so full up." She yawned as she spoke. "What on earth are you going to post this time of night for?"

"It isn't 12 yet; they clear the box at 12."

Violet made a movement to pass down the stairs; the letter she carried slipped from her hand; Olive stooped in a flash and picked it up; she no longer showed signs of weariness.

She returned it instantly to Violet, but in that second she had seen to whom the letter was addressed.

"Ronald Hastings, Esq., care Violet's, street, London."

And it was marked in the corner "Personal."

When Ronald Hastings walked into the office at Violet's the following morning there was a small pile of letters for him on Madame's desk.

Communications of all sorts, but chiefly begging letters, reached him through Madame; it was generally known that the whole business was his; generally known, too, that he was practically a millionaire.

Madame greeted him with a smile—she always had a smile for Hastings; she considered him so "distinguished," the proudest day of her life had been when he had once taken her out to lunch. She lived in the hope that he would repeat the invitation.

But Hastings was not particularly fond of the society of women; he had been too much run after, too eagerly sought. The "at home" and entertainments his mother gave and which he was perfectly obliged to attend bored him to extinction—he would far rather have spent the evening with male companions or even by himself.

Violet had attracted him because, obviously, he did not attract her, and it was new experience for him; it amused him exceedingly to see the way she held her head when he

Maxims of a Modern Man

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

AFTER a man has admitted to an attractive woman that he is worthy of his wife, he seems irresistibly impelled to prove such is indeed the case!

After a woman has analyzed to her satisfaction all the reasons why she loves her husband, she can, and usually does, devote the rest of her life to the discovery and classification of all the reasons why she loves him.

As a performance, sin, alas, never lives up to the promise of advance agents.

Home is a vastly overestimated spot. The lowering suspicion which those born conservatives, father and the children, regard as a blot on the dinner table is enough to turn mother into a bolshewik.

Leaving another under obligation is perhaps the best of all selves to one's self-esteem.

Compared to modern vamping, the old-fashioned flirtation with horse and buggy to the speeding motor car. You "get there" much more easily, but it is a long way to go—do you have a penny? The duplicate is given the buttons of the coat sleeve. That penny is carefully kept.

Another penny is dropped down the sleeve of the other hand reaches it. It pretends to draw the coin, really securing the duplicate. It is out for inspection. The case can be found in the case, and cause some surprise.

The White Watchers

Much may be gained by sitting still. If you but have the strength of will.

—Jumper the Hare.

JUMPER the Hare crouched at the foot of a tree in the Green Forest and a little way from him on a stump sat Whiter the Snowy Owl. Had you been there to see them both would have appeared as white as the snow around them, unless you had looked very closely. Then you might have seen two narrow black lines back of Jumper's head. They were the line of his ears, for these remain black, and near the upper part of the white mound which was Whiter, you might have seen two round yellow spots, his eyes.

There they were, for all the world like two little heaps of snow. Jumper didn't move so much as a hair. Whiter didn't move so much as a feather. Both were waiting and watching. Jumper didn't move because he knew that Whiter was there. Whiter didn't move because he didn't want any one to know he was there, and didn't know that Jumper was there. Jumper was sitting still because he was afraid. Whiter was sitting still because he was hungry.

So there they sat, each in plain sight of the other, but only one seeing the other. This was because Jumper had been fortunate enough to see Whiter alight on that stump. Jumper had been sitting still when Whiter arrived, and so those fierce yellow eyes had not yet seen him. But had Jumper so much as lifted one of those long ears Whiter would have seen and with his great claws would have been reaching for Jumper.

Jumper didn't want to sit still. No, indeed! He wanted to run. You know it is on those long legs of his that Jumper depends almost wholly for safety. But there are times for running and times for sitting still, and this was a time for sitting still. He knew that Whiter didn't know that he was anywhere near. But

"Yes, I am, dead tired," she glided accepted his offer of a cup of coffee in the shop they had used the other night; she sat down wearily. "I hope you have good news for me," she said, forcing a smile.

He shook his head. "I am afraid not, Mr. Hastings is impatient; he wants to see you as quickly as I might. He wants the boy. He says he will employ other means if I do not bring him the boy in a week."

Violet went white to the lips; she felt as if some one had given her a blow over the heart; she had not expected this; she had hoped great things.

There was kindly concern in Martin's eyes; he had done his best. He tried to see the shock he had given her; he thought of the overbearing, arrogant way Hastings had treated him, and he wished that he had never undertaken the affair.

Violet recovered quickly; she drank the hot coffee. It seemed to put fresh life and vigor into her; her thoughts began to work quickly. She thought of Hastings as he had been that evening—willing, even anxious to be friends with her; she remembered the letter he had written to her; she remembered the interest in her, genuinely interested, to have done such a thing.

She spoke to Martin hurriedly. "He gives you a week? Well, will you give me five days? Let me have five days. I will not take the boy away. I give you my word of honor I will not do anything mean or underhand; you have been kind to me. I will be honest with you. Give me five days and then."

She drew a long breath. "If—if Mr. Hastings still wants me, Ronnie—I promise to give him 'up.' Her lips trembled, but her voice was quite steady. Martin held out his hand.

So there they sat each in plain sight of the other.

Just the same, it was hard, very hard, to sit there with one he so greatly feared and watch him eat, seemed as if those fierce yellow eyes of Whiter must see him. They seemed to look right through him. They made him shake inside.

I want to run. I want to run. I want to run. Jumper was saying to himself. Then he would say, "But I mustn't. I mustn't."

And so Jumper did the hardest thing in the world—sat still and stared at Whiter the Snowy Owl. He was sitting still to save his life.

Whiter the Snowy Owl was sitting still to catch a dinner. I know that sounds queer, but it was so. He knew that as long as he sat still he was not likely to be seen. It was for this purpose that Old Mother Nature had given him that coat of white. In the Far North, which is his real home, everything is white for months and months, and any one dressed in a dark coat can be seen a long distance. So Whiter had been given that white coat that he might have a better chance to catch food.

And he had learned how to make the best use of it. Yes, indeed, he knew how to make the best use of it. It was by doing just what he was doing now—sitting perfectly still. Just before he had alighted on that stump he had seen something move at the entrance to a little round hole in the snow. He was sure of it.

"A mouse," thought Whiter, and alighted on that stump. "He saw me flying, but he'll forget about it after awhile and will come out again. He won't see me then if I don't move. And I won't move until he is far enough from that hole for me to catch him before he can get back to it."

So the two watchers in white sat without moving for the longest time, one watching for a dinner and the other watching the other watcher.

UNCOMMON SENSE By JOHN BLAKE.

THE BOY WHO SAYS "WE."

DON'T laugh at the boy who says "we" when referring to the concern he works for.

His job may be merely to sweep out and take care of the waste-paper basket. But if he begins to look upon the concern as his concern, and to think that he is a part of it, he is pretty sure to get along.

One of the things that helps any organization to succeed is the sense of proprietorship felt by the men who are working for it.

You will find that a railroad brakeman is inclined to regard the company he works for as a fine railroad company, although he may have differences with it regarding pay schedules.

The office boy in a bank who goes out and talks largely of the size of the bank and the vast good it is doing in the commercial community may be president of the bank some time.

The office boy who doesn't know what the bank is for or hasn't any idea whether it is a big or a little one will never get anywhere.

If you are working for a concern, big or little, don't be afraid to regard it as your own, or at least as partly your own, as long as you work for it.

You are a sharer in the profits, at least as far as your salary is concerned. And if it is a well-managed institution you are a sharer in the opportunities for promotion its expansion will bring.

Look on it as your own. Think about it as your own, and work for it as your own as long as you are there.

If you discover that this isn't going to do any good—that you can never possibly rise in it—the only thing to do is to keep your eyes open for another job and take it as quickly as it offers, even though you have to accept smaller pay from the first.

Remember that the relations between employer and employee are never forced. You can quit. And if you think your employer, whether individual or corporate, is using you only to wring profits out of you, the best thing to do is to get a new employer.

Choose a business, if you can, that you can be proud of—one that you would like to own. Then, if you act as if you did own it, you may do so some time.

IS JAZZ GOOD OR BAD?

Jazz Editor:
Why blame the popular music of today for the dance steps or movements that are being criticized when more than 20 years ago "rags," full of syncopation, were all the rage? Remember "Maple Leaf," "Creole Belles," "Georgia Camp Meeting," and many others of equal popularity? These were played with much "pep," had a natural swing in the melody itself, still there were no protests raised against the dancing generally. Only in certain sections of the city where low class public dance halls were in operation, would the so-called "raggers" dance in a questionable manner, and the musicians have to fall in line and play music known as the slow drag to fit their movements. Why didn't the better element of the dancing public fall in line with the raggers? In the music then there was just as much syncopation.

Most of the modern dance music which has been written with special arrangements and played by the leading popular orchestras is not to be confused with the so-called jazz. No, is the music in any way to blame for the indecent dancing as some would have us believe.

From close observation every new dance beginning with the Argentine Tango was introduced to the public first by way of the stage, then the cabaret, and finally someone would adapt the steps for the ballroom and many dancers looking for novelty took up the extreme dance steps and created the demand that made composers and leaders of orchestras turnish the music to fit the dance.

Going back to the day of the waiters, every now and then a cry was raised as to objectionable positions assumed by the dancers. They either held each other too close or their hands were in the wrong places. Surely the music was not to blame for that.

When the barn dance came into vogue, for lack of special music it was danced to the old tunes of "Turkey in the Straw," or "Reuben," typical rural folk tunes. As the barn dance gained in popularity, the publishers had their staff composers write special musical arrangements for these steps, the most popular being "By Heck!"

The longer the dance was danced, the noisier became the dancers, often seeing how hard they could stamp, rocking the building and setting a merry pace for the musicians to play loud enough to be heard. Indeed, the barn dance was finally barred from all halls for fear of damage done to the buildings. The dancers had themselves to blame for this, and not the musicians.

After the jolly but boisterous barn dance came the "Ostende," introduced by Jacob Mahler in 1910, the vogue of which swept the country. The "Ostende" was never excelled for grace and beauty. It was Mr. Mahler who asked me to compose the music for the dance. No word of criticism was ever directed against the "Ostende" as originally danced, and probably it is the only ballroom dance of recent years enjoying this unique distinction. There is still a demand for the Ostende, which is unusual, too, in this age of tunes which live but for their little day.

Following in order came the One Step, introduced by Vernon Castle. The music was composed by James Europe, orchestra leader for the Castles, here again demonstrating that the music follows after and is composed to fit the steps of the dance, and not vice versa. Next came the Fox Trot, introduced by Mr. Fox in Paris and named not for the animal as is generally supposed. As originally executed it was a very proper dance, but as now ENLIGHTENED, in another sense it has degenerated into such grotesque steps as the "scandal walk," the "camel walk," and nobody knows what next! The original music for the Fox Trot could not have invited criticism, but as its degeneration progressed, the latter clip was demanded of the musicians and the musician could only comply.

The word jazz is said to have been used first by a bibulous dancer in a Chicago cafe who, desiring more pep at the moment, shouted to the orchestra, "Jazz 'er up, boys!" That was about seven years ago. The jazz command was carried out at that time by the cornetist blowing the bell off his instrument, the trombonist hee-hawing and making sliding noises, the drummer "pounding the tar out of" the drums, cowbells, kitchenware and the pianist mauling the ivories—really a conglomeration of discordant noises, with every man for himself. This was that orchestra's interpretation of the word jazz and still is jazz, the public misapplying this term to any and all popular music. The term jazz among musicians means technically a form of treating a theme, as a symphony would treat a theme or a sonata would treat a theme each in its particular way. It is not written as something discordant, but players play it discordantly sometimes just to accommodate the public's demand for that sort of entertainment. Popular music in general is not responsible for the indecencies by which some thoughtless dancers invite criticism, but the manner in which even good music is sometimes rendered by some musicians does encourage to some extent the extreme steps. After all is said, it is the dancers who decide the steps and how they step them and the music must fit. It is the dancers who want what they want when they want it.

TAKE one quart of oysters. Put one pint of water in a saucepan and let it simmer, then rub the yolks of three hard-boiled eggs and one spoonful of flour together and stir in. Put in also one-fourth pound of butter in small pieces, one-half teaspoon whole allspice, the juice of a lemon, salt and pepper. Let it simmer 10 minutes, then add the oysters and serve immediately.

THE LAST NIGHT ON THE RINK.

Chapter 68.

BILLY and Peggy agreed to play quite a prank upon Marion Minton and Jack Reed. Jack had an engagement with Peggy to go skating, so it was decided that Billy should escort Marion out to the rink. Since both Jack and Marion supposed Billy and Peggy were still on unfriendly terms, they planned to salute each other in the jolliest terms.

"Why, you dear old firebug," exclaimed Peggy as Marion and Billy skated past them, "what time did you get here?"

"Just about 10 minutes before you arrived," Peggy Bobbed-locks, laughed Billy as he linked her arm in his and started off with the two girls upon his arm.

There was nothing for Jack Reed to do but to follow, since he held Peggy's other arm. For a moment the four skirted the rink, then Billy said, "Suppose you take Marion for a spin, Jack, and let Peggy and me turn loose. We have a few new steps we'd like to show you."

They waltzed off, a feat which not only surprised the other couple, but left them speechless for a second.

"Why, I thought Peggy and Billy were deadly enemies," laughed Marion, but Jack Reed was too provoked for words.

"That's the way to treat Jack Reed," chuckled Billy, as they continued to waltz about fantastically upon the ice. "I have an idea that those two young people will become very good friends."

"I certainly hope so," agreed Peggy. "Now, what do you say to our leaving here?"

"I don't see why we should be driven away from here," frowned Billy. "I rather like to sport around before Jack Reed."

Although Peggy and Billy were both expert skaters and frequently envied by the rest of the young people upon the rink because of their ability to waltz and do the fox trot on ice, Peggy's foot suddenly gave way and she slipped. Billy tried to save her but her weight pulled him down.

There was a little sharp cry from Peggy and before she knew just what had happened it seemed as if all the merry-makers had crowded around her and she could not breathe. Jack Reed and Marion Minton were there, but she couldn't see Billy.

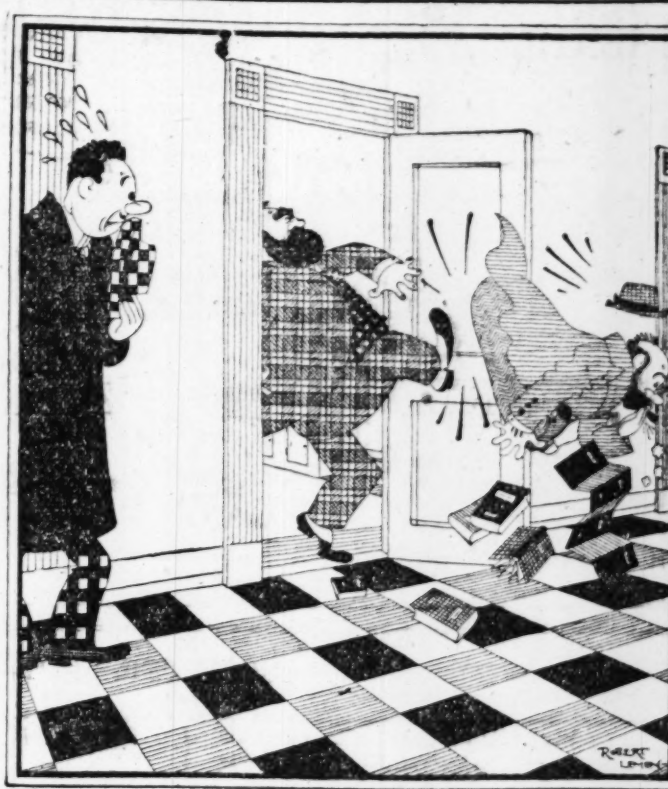

"Where is Billy? Is he hurt?" she asked, while Jack Reed came to her assistance.

"I'm right here," came Billy's comforting voice from the distance. "I just called a man to hail a taxi for us, Peg. You are all right, but I'm afraid you sprained your ankle."

"Let me help," volunteered Jack. "Just leave this to me and to the young man who hailed the taxi," announced Billy.

"This is no time for talk," he said with a wave of his hand, while he and a very robust young man half led and half carried Peggy across the rink and then slipped her into a waiting taxi. They drove as far as they could to Peggy's physician, where she was told she had slightly sprained her ankle and must rest at home for the next 10 days.

When Peggy arrived home her mother buzzed about her, brought her comfortable pillows and made the young people hot lemonade.

"I am almost glad this happened, despite the sharp pain," Peggy whispered to Billy. "Now I won't have to go to the theater with that old Jack Reed and I shall positively refuse to see him, no matter what mother says. Billy, I have had enough of him."

"But this is our last night on the

Why fade at 30?

Youthful maturity may exert a charm which youth alone can't rival. And certainly no woman should allow her youthful freshness to fade just when the joy of living should be at its height.

Keep your school-girl complexion and you can forget the passing years. The woman with a fresh, radiant skin will always seem young.

How to keep it—this is simple, as Cleopatra could tell you. The secret lies in daily intelligent care which will make beauty life-long.

How Cleopatra kept young
Girlhood days had long passed when the beautiful Egyptian reached the height of her fame and loveliness. Her charm grew greater with the years.

She knew how to care for and keep the smooth, flawless complexion which makes the possessor seem ever young.

Her method—thorough cleansing with the soothing oils discovered in ancient Egypt. Whatever cosmetics this queen of beauty used, the foundation was a skin free from all injurious accumulations.

Why your face needs washing

Because the accumulation of dirt, oil and perspiration must be removed or they will ruin your skin. To let them collect in the pores is to invite complexion troubles.

Inevitably such deposits soon cause enlarged pores and coarse texture results. The dirt forms blackheads and carries infections which cause blotches.

The more powder you use to conceal this condition the worse it grows, for this only increases the clogging. Lotions and cold creams won't help—you must remove the cause.

Gentle cleansing with Palmolive will soon improve the condition, and don't be afraid to be thorough.

Massage the cosmetic lather into the skin so that it may remove every trace of injurious soil.

If your skin is dry, apply cold cream after cleansing. Oily skins won't require such applications.

Throat, neck, shoulders

Need the same beautifying cleansing, for complexion beauty doesn't stop with the face.

Bathe with Palmolive and keep your skin smooth and white. It is a luxury-all can afford.

For with all its fineness, its mild, soothing qualities, its gentle cosmetic action, Palmolive isn't an expensive soap. Popularity keeps the price low.

10 cents a cake

This modest sum is possible through gigantic production which keeps the Palmolive factories working day and night and the importation of the bland mild oils in reducing volume.

Thus this finest facial soap, which if made in small quantities would cost at least 25 cents, is offered at the price of ordinary soap.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

WHEN you can say for a story that it is funny and that, moreover, it is the recital of an actual occurrence, I claim it carries with it a double value. I think this story is funny, and I have knowledge that the thing happened substantially as it is here set down:

Achmed Abdullah, the novelist and short-story writer, is an Afghan, a descendant of an old and noble family of Afghanistan and a son of a former Governor of Kabul. He was educated in Europe, and he has lived and adventured pretty much all over the world. Being a natural linguist, he has picked up tongues as he went until today he knows as many languages and jargons as probably any living man knows.

With the rank of Captain he was on recruiting service once for the British army in Cairo. To him came an Egyptian officer of police to ask his aid. It seemed that two native constables had picked up in the bazaars a black man whose nationality was unknown and whose purposes were unfathomable, seeing that he could not be made to understand the question put to him by his captors.

It seemed that for several days before his arrest the prisoner had been lurking about the bazaars, a butt for gamins and the despair of those who sought to interrogate him regarding his antecedents and his intentions. As much for his own protection as for any other motive the police had locked him up. Now the expert assistance of Capt. Abdullah as translator was solicited.

Abdullah accompanied the puzzled functionary to the prison. In a corner of a cell crouched a huge black man staring with apprehensive, sullen eyes at the newcomers. It was evident that he was of some African stock; also it was plain that he was in a badly frightened state. He was clad in a nondescript costume of tatters which he had picked up somewhere—the sandals of an Arabian, a Turkish fez and the ragged remains of a donkey driver's white robe.

Being admitted to the cell, the volunteer interpreter proceeded to fire simple questions at the captive, first in French, then in Afghan and then in Ashantee, in Turkish, in Persian and in Batu. There was no response; the black merely continued to glower at him dumbly. So then Abdullah tried him in some of the tongues of the Sahara Desert and in the clucking dialects of one or two Congo tribes and finally in Zulu, with which he was also more or less familiar. Still the hunched-up figure gave no sign of understanding.

In despair, Abdullah gave it up. "I wonder," he said aloud, to himself, "what in thunder you are, anyway?"

With a bellow of thanksgiving the prisoner leaped to his feet.

"Boss," he whooped, "I's a Free Will Baptist!"

And so he was—a country dorky from Alabama who had shipped on a tramp steamer out of New Orleans, had deserted off the African coast, swimming ashore naked, and had for days past been dodging about the native quarters, growing hourly more bewildered and more desperate in these strange surroundings.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

THE ORCHARDIST TO THE WOODMAN.

(With Apologies)

Woodman, spare that tree!
Tough not a single bough:
In youth it was small use to me,
But things are different now.

Although its fruit was sweet,
It had but small appeal,
More ardently I longed to eat
The fruit I had to steal.

But now this single tree
You fain would have attacked
Is all the chance that's left to me
To beat the Volstead act.

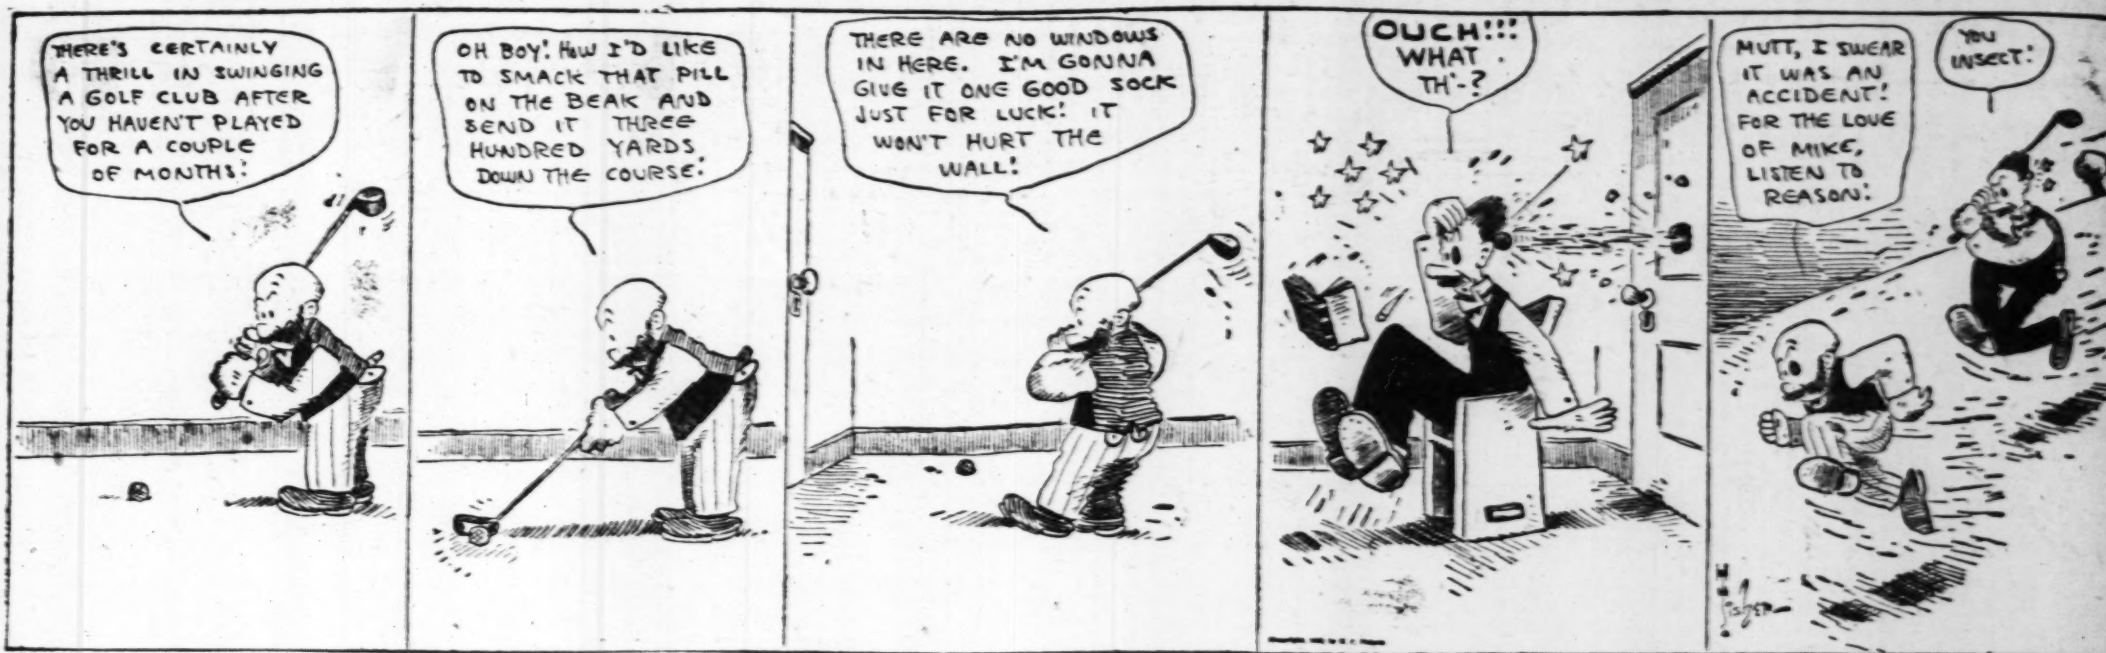

The apples that I sponged,
Before the land went dry,
To sparkling cider may be turned
When ripened by and by.

Great jugs with cider filled,
Shall bear upon my back,
So even where they will be distilled
To luscious apple jack.

And, though black, chill and raw
Shall blow the winter blast,
I shall not know the Volstead law
Was ever even passed!

So woodman, spare this tree,
Or there will be a row,
These apples mean my knock to me,
So fight to save 'em now!
